EXECUTION LIKELY FOR 6 SABOTEURS

Nazis Expected To Be Turned Over to Army as Biddle, Stimson Confer.

COURT MARTIAL SEEN

2 Others in Sabotage Squad Can Be Prosecuted For Treason, Say Experts.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A lengthy conference between Attorney General Biddle and Secretary of War Stimson created belief today that at least six of the eight German sabotage agents captured by the FBI, may be turned over to the army for court martial and almost certain execution.

It could not be learned whether two of the saboteurs who are American citizens can be tried by the army. Members of congress and legal experts say that they can be prosecuted for treason, however.

Biddle consulted throughout the day with Stimson, Maj. Gen. Myron C. Cramer, army judge advocate general, and other officials of the justice and war departments.

"The two departments are in substantial agreement upon the steps to be taken in the prosecution of the eight German saboteurs who were apprehended by the FBI shortly after landing on our coasts from Nazi submarines," Biddle said.

"A further and more detailed announcement concerning this matter may be expected within the next 48 hours."

Biddle earlier promised that the government would act "swiftly and thoroughly" in its prosecution of the Nazi agents, who were trapped by the FBI in New York and Chicago after they landed on American shores from German submarines.

The two saboteurs who are American citizens are Ernest Peter Burger and Herbert Haupt.

Justice department officials said that "without any trace of doubt" the entire party of "invaders" has been rounded up and their accomplices and sponsors "either in our custody or about to be." Following the sensational arrest of the eight agents, it was announced that "several more" persons, said to be contact men for the saboteurs, were apprehended.

The FBI said that the two groups of four Nazi agents each which landed in rubber boats from the U-boats were not complemented by "any further personnel nor any other groups landed elsewhere."

Demands that the saboteurs be given the death penalty continued to come from congress. One member, Rep. Pfeiffer (R) N. Y., demanded the mandatory death penalty for all those who give aid and comfort to the enemy.

Crew Of 3 Still Working On City Airport Project

Mayor W. J. Locke's crew of a man and two boys will return to the municipal airport tomorrow to resume work on the $5,000 maintenance and improvement program for which funds were set up by city council early this year.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff said today that he had been wrong in stating previously that there had been no workers at the port for almost two weeks.

Wolff made his statement that the job was still being carried on today, when asked why pay vouchers were being presented for work done last week.

"I haven't been keeping too close a check on the work at the airport," said Wolff. After all, its only a small project and I have had other matters to handle. It was my impression last week that there were no workers at the port."

The service director said that (Continued on Page 5, Col. 8)

CONTROL RENTS

Directors Picked for Two Ohio Areas, 46 Others.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Price Administrator Leon Henderson has named rent directors for 48 defense rental areas, housing approximately one-fifth of the nation's population.

The new directors include Byron B. Harlon of the Dayton, O., area, and Albert Ford for the Lorain-Elyria, O., area.

Regulations, effective tomorrow ordered rents cut back to April 1, 1941 levels in the Dayton and to July 1, 1941 in the Lorain-Elyria area.

Substitute Auto Tires 'Demanded'

WPB Tells Manufacturers 'Get Down to Business' on Development.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The nation's leading tire makers were summoned into conference today with War Production board officials and told, in effect, to "get down to business" on the development of a substitute tire that will keep essential transportation rolling.

At the same time, it was learned that a concerted effort will be made soon to induce the country's 28,000,000 passenger car owners to voluntarily sell their "extra" tires to the government.

Representatives of tire manufacturing concerns met with rubber czar Arthur B. Newhall to discuss possibilities of producing a substitute tire that would give 3,500 miles of wear to essential users.

Some officials believe that the tire makers can produce a satisfactory, low-mileage substitute from currently available synthetics, such as Dow Chemical's thiokol; vistanex, developed by Standard Oil, and other hydrocarbon products.

Criticism has been leveled against tire manufacturing companies for "lagging" back; awaiting explicit government instructions, and depending upon oil companies and chemical firms to "carry the ball" in the rubber crisis.

The vigorous campaign to purchase "extra" tires from motorists is expected to be started soon after the close of the current scrap rubber drive which President Roosevelt extended for another 10 days to midnight July 10.

Officials estimate that 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 "extra" tires—those in addition to the "spare"—might be obtained.

Usable tires collected in such an effort would quickly be rationed out to essential motorists, while (Continued on Page 5, Col. 7)

PAVING PERILED

Federal Rationing Threatens Job on 42 in City.

Plans to resurface portions of U. S. routes 42 and 42-A within the city as part of an improvement program sponsored jointly by the city and state highway department faced delay or possible suspension today.

Vance Grimes, Ashland division engineer of the state highway department, announced that he had been informed that the government would start tomorrow rationing bituminous material needed in the resurfacing program.

Although the city's part in the project—$24,000 of the total cost of $72,000—has been appropriated, Grimes said that the project could not be started until the federal roads authority had given its approval. Grimes said this might cause a delay in the start of the work, planned to get under way by the middle of July.

ACCUSED KILLER DENIES CHARGE

O. S. R. Inmate Pleads Not Guilty to Murder; Seven Others Arraigned.

Ernest Moore, 19, Mansfield reformatory inmate, accused of slaying a fellow inmate June 1, pleaded innocent to an indictment for first degree murder when arraigned with seven other defendants this morning before Common Pleas Judge C. H Huston. Four defendants pleaded guilty and four said they were innocent.

The court disposed of only one of the cases, placing Walter G. Laser, 19, on probation for three years after he pleaded guilty to an indictment for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. Three others in which guilty pleas were entered were continued.

Moore's plea was submitted by Atty. J. H. Gongwer, who was appointed yesterday by the court to represent him. The trial was tentatively set for the week of July 13. Moore is accused of slaying Charles Dickerson, 31, of Newark.

John Johnson, Mansfield colored steel worker, indicted for second degree murder in the fatal stabbing of his wife, Mary, will be arraigned at 9 a. m. Wednesday with at least three other defendants. Atty. George W. Biddle, representing Johnson and three others, asked for a continuance since he was out of the city today.

COAL MINERS GO BACK TO WORK

Reach Agreement With Operators At Request of Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Coal miners in southern West Virginia, eastern Kentucky and Virginia returned to the mines today under an agreement reached with operators at the request of President Roosevelt.

John L. Lewis, United Mine workers president who signed the agreement late yesterday with the southern producers, said he believed most of the 75,000 miners in the area would be at work today.

All coal miners except those in the southern area agreed to forego a ten-day vacation in order to produce coal for the nation's war industries. Lewis declined to cancel vacation schedules in the southern area when the operators refused to return $200,000 in fines.

GROUP ACTS TO COMBINE ALL RELIEF DRIVES

Campaign Expected to Open In November For Goal Not To Exceed $135,000.

BRUNNER PRESIDENT

Personnel For Organization Elected; Red Cross Only Drive Excluded.

Mansfield will have a War Chest for the duration.

Action to combine all war relief and welfare drives, exclusive of the Red Cross, into one major campaign, was taken last night by approximately 65 representatives of business, industrial and professional organizations at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

While the date of the drive has not officially been set nor the goal determined, it is expected that the campaign will be staged in November. The goal is not expected to exceed $135,000, less by $3,000 than the city gave last year to war relief drives alone.

H. G. Brunner, vice president of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, and former Mansfield mayor who was one of the organizers of the 1918 War Chest, was elected president. Mansfield's first War Chest organization raised a total of $390,000. Brunner was a member of the executive committee.

Other officers elected were: Msgr. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's church, vice president; Mrs. Tom Ford, Alta-West road, secretary, and John W. Graham, general manager of The Mansfield News-Journal, treasurer. C. N. Shultz acted as temporary chairman and Mrs. Tom Ford as secretary pro tem.

The War Chest is the outgrowth of a suggestion made three weeks ago by the Community Fund, which offered its facilities, services and organization for such an undertaking.

DECISION DUE

Board to Decide Saturday on County Fair's Fate.

The Richland county fair board will decide next Saturday night whether the 1942 fair will be held as usual or called off to conserve tires and gasoline, C. C. Hout, chairman of the fair board, said today.

Hout has called a meeting of board members for 8:30 p. m. Saturday at the courthouse. Members then will have the chance to express themselves on the request of Joseph B. Eastman, federal director of defense transportation, that all fairs be cancelled.

County and independent fair boards were told yesterday in Columbus to decide for themselves whether to continue their fairs during the war. They met in Columbus with officers of the Ohio Fair Managers association and adopted a resolution "to continue all fairs where they will not handicap the war effort." Attending from Richland county were Hout and R. D. Hale, secretary of the fair board.

Be Down Town Tomorrow To Attend Noisy War Bond Show

With a full year's supply of noise crammed into 15 minutes, Mansfield tomorrow will usher in "Retailers for Victory" month, during which war savings stamps and bonds will be offered as "the best buy" at the city's retail establishments.

At noon sharp on Wednesday, the excitement will start, and it will continue for 15 minutes. If the plans of the committee are realized, the city will really "let its hair down" in a demonstration which the retailers call a "White-Out for Victory."

R. M. Calene, chairman of the committee arranging the city's participation in the nation-wide campaign for all retail establishments to sell bonds and stamps during July, urged all the folks in town who can get away to be down town at noon to watch the fun—and to buy war bonds or stamps.

The committee has invited everyone in the city with a noise-maker—whether it's a drum or a siren or a whistle or an old dishpan—to take part. And those who don't have noise-mekers are invited to come down town and yell, to contribute to the din. A general display of flags is also urged.

Court Order Again Blocks Gasoline Station Hour Bill

The city of Mansfield today was temporarily enjoined by a common pleas court order from enforcing an ordinance regulating the operation of gasoline filling stations, marking the second time in three months that Mansfield filling station ordinances have run into snags in court.

Judge C. H. Huston granted the Standard Oil company of Ohio the temporary restraining order after a brief hearing at which the city offered no protest. The case will be heard on its merits July 24 before Judge Huston.

The ordinance, which was to have gone into effect July 7, would limit the operation of filling stations to 72 hours a week and require proprietors to post their weekly schedules in their stations at the beginning of the week.

The Standard Oil company, operating several stations in Mansfield, contended that the ordinance is unconstitutional and "unjustly discriminatory in that it attempts to regulate the retail business conducted by gasoline filling stations."

City's Physicians In Army and Navy Now Stand At 18

The number of Mansfield physicians in the army and navy stood at 18 today after a visit to the city by a Medical Recruiting board which conferred commissions on 12 doctor applicants and one destist from an eight-county area.

Of the 13 receiving commissions, eight were from Mansfield —seven physicians and one dentist. Of the other five physicians, two are from Willard, one from Lexington, one from Wooster, and the fifth from Bellevue.

All 13 newly-commissioned officers started preparations today for closing their offices and otherwise winding up their civilian practice. One of the group already has received his orders, and the others anticipated their orders within 10 days, dispatching them to the first station in their army careers.

SIGN-UP ENDS

Registration of Youngsters Concludes Tonight.

Richland county was completing its fifth registration of manpower under the selective service act today with the last of an estimated 1,400 youths in the 18-to-20½ year age bracket signing up at five registration points

Board officials said the rate of registration this morning indicated about 800 would have signed up by the time the registration points close at 9 p. m. With 600 registered Saturday, this would bring the total to 1,400, the figure originally predicted.

The registration points opened at 7 a. m., and the youths were on hand early. At Board 1, Clerk Todd Patton registered twins, Rex and Richard Collins, 19, of 210 Mapledale, in the lobby of the Farmers Bank building at 7 a. m., a half hour before the elevator service in the building started.

Those who registered today and Saturday will not be subject to military service until they reach their 20th birthdays.

Fliers Stiffen British Stand, Blast Invaders

American Airmen Hit Rommel Columns Day And Night, Bomb Tobruk; Enemy Raids Alexandria; See-Saw Fight Rages Along Russian Front.

(By Associated Press)

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's 175-mile drive inside Egypt was reported running into stiffened resistance today as U. S. army fliers and fresh New Zealand troops reinforced the British imperial armies amid heavy fighting 140 miles west of the great Alexandria naval base.

Alexandria itself was bombed again during the night.

An RAF communique said U. S. airmen were pounding the invaders by day and night, attacking Axis columns west of Matruh and bombing enemy-occupied Tobruk in Libya.

Front-line observers reflected some optimism over the new trend of the battle, but the situation remained extremely critical.

A bulletin from Italian headquarters said Axis motorized columns had passed Fuka, 45 miles east of fallen Matruh.

Cairo dispatches, however, declared that reinforcements in planes and men were helping to rally the British 8th army, and indicated that the British were fighting from new positions about 50 miles east of Matruh, on a 45-mile line stretching inland from the Mediterranean sea coast to the Egyptian "Death valley" known as the Quattara depression.

British imperial headquarters said the 8th army, fighting desperately under a new command, had thrown back "large forces of enemy tanks and vehicles" on Sunday, east of Fuka.

Again yesterday, a communique said, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's panzers advanced "and again were engaged in the same area by our forces." Communique said New Zealand troops battled Axis armored forces and infantry in another sector and inflicted heavy casualties in hand-to-hand bayonet fighting.

In London, Prime Minister Churchill, tumultuously cheered by parliament following his return from the United States, announced that Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, commander in chief of British Middle East forces, had taken over personal command of the British 8th army.

A canny Scotsman, one of Britain's ace "trouble shooter," Gen. Auchinleck supersedes Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie, field commander in the disastrous Libyan campaign.

While the news from the Egyptian battle theater remained ominous, Soviet dispatches reported that the heroic defenders of Sevastopol had staged an eleventh-hour rally when the situation appeared verging on catastrophe and had smothered a 48-hour assault by German shock troops.

Subsequently, a Nazi communique asserted that German forces attacking from the north had penetrated Sevastopol's inner defense ring, crossing Sewernaja bay "in (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

CHANGE: Auchinleck Put In Command Of British 8th Army

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Churchill announced today General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, commander in chief of British forces in the Middle East, had taken command of the British Eighth army in North Africa on June 25, superseding Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie.

Ritchie had commanded the desert army since last Dec. 11 when he took over from Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham.

Churchill, who spoke on his first appearance in the house of commons after his return from the United States, was received tumultuously in the chamber.

The prime minister, who faces a challenge to his war leadership, gave the house no accounting of his conferences with President Roosevelt.

Declining to allow publication of the reports of General Sir Archibald Wavell, commander-in-chief in India, on the losses of Malaya and Singapore, the prime minister said they "clearly would cause a great deal of ill-will throughout the British empire."

Ritchie's removal did not alter the ultimate control of Britain's forces in the Mediterranean area since Auchinleck already was commander-in-chief.

British observers expressed belief that Auchinleck was dissatisfied with conduct of the campaign in the field, where Ritchie was in charge, while he presumably operated from headquarters in the rear.

Auchinleck, who was Wavell's successor in the Middle East, went to the front last November after another big British offensive had bogged down. It was then that Ritchie replaced Cunningham.

Now Auchinleck goes under similar circumstances. Again, reverses set in for Britain's desert fighters after confident reports from North Africa had led the public to believe the campaign was developing favorably.

GAIN: Japs Advance In 2-Way Drive Along Chinese Railway

(By Associated Press)

Fighting in a torrential rainstorm, Japan's invasion armies were reported in a Tokyo broadcast to have gained another 20 miles in a two-way drive along the vital Chekiang-Kiangsi railway in eastern China today.

The broadcast said that three Chinese armies—the 26th, 49th and 74th—were retreating southward from the Chinese-held strip of the railway and that Japanese spearheads now were only about 30 miles apart.

A Chinese army spokesman said the invaders were still 50 miles apart, but implied that a new phase of the battle was about to start.

Commenting that it was difficult to predict what the Japanese would do next, the spokesman said possibly they would try to invade coastal Fukien province in a further attempt to eliminate air bases from which Japan could be bombed.

The spokesman said fighting northward on the Shansi-Honan border was "very complicated," with three Japanese columns attacking the Chinese from Shansi and three from Honan.

Meanwhile, a Domei (Japanese) news agency broadcast said that in strong drives from the east and west for the announced purpose of clearing the Chinese from remaining portions of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, the Japanese have thrown three Chungking armies into a retreat.

THE WAR TODAY

(Wide World War Analyst)
By DEWITT M'KENZIE

The battle for Egypt still swirls inconclusively but it's well we recognize now that the Allies are nearer disaster than at any time since Hitler crushed the Anglo-French-Belgian fighting front.

Definitely it's not a moment for despair, but it will be a matter of great rejoicing if we win. Here's the way the picture looks at the moment:

The British have been carrying out a fighting withdrawal in the face of Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's fierce all-out offensive until their right flank has reached the neighborhood of Fuka on the coast and probably has gone east of that place. It looks as though they would aim to hold El Daba, a fortified position on the coast.

Should the defense fail to hold a line from El Daba it might let catastrophe loose against the key naval and air base of Alexandria only 100 miles farther east. Cairo and the Suez Canal lie just beyond.

The British withdrawal has largely been strategically calculated to compel Rommel to lengthen his already strained lines of communication and at the same time permit the defenders to shorten their battle front and reorganize.

Among factors working against the British are these: Their weary army is disorganized from its heavy defeat and retreat and is having to reorganize in the face of Rommel's terrific hammering. The enemy holds the initiative.

If Alexandria's usefulness as a naval and air base hasn't already been largely nullified there is danger it will be because of the enemy's capture of airfields from which Axis bombers can reach this great port.

Circumstances favorable to the British include the time gained by retreat. That has permitted the arrival of fresh troops. Better yet, American air strength—was coming to the rescue. This meant much because it appeared that the battle was likely to turn on air control, and Rommel likewise was receiving air aid.

Best of all, the defenders have their chins up and say that they can win.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

IT SEEMS to me that nothing refutes the legend that this is a fickle town so vividly as the sight of Gotham's citizens tearing down a roof at the sight of expoliticos Alfred E. Smith and James J. Walker.

Kilgallen

You'd be inclined to expect that the passage of time might dim the enthusiasm of the populace for the symbol of "The Sidewalks of New York" or for the dapper Night Mayor. But you'd be inclined to think wrong.

Whenever I've seen Al Smith being coaxed to take a bow, the reception has reached deafening proportions—in fact, you had only to see and hear the welcome he received at the opening of the Ed Wynn show to be convinced that he has not dropped an inch on the popularity poll.

And I can think of few warmer and more affectionate big city scenes that the one on the night of the premiere of "Sons O' Fun" when Al got up in the aisle to render a dancing demonstration with one of Olsen and Johnson's chorus lassies.

As for Jimmy Walker's standing in the community that is illustrated almost daily at luncheons and banquets where his sharp wit and flowering tongue invariably bring down the house whether he is guest of honor, toastmaster, or merely gets up to say a dozen pertinent words.

And some time when you are in Sardi's, look up at the place of honor over the door. Jimmy Walker's picture is there, bigger than any of the others, and more prominent—just as if so far as the people of Broadway are concerned, there's never been another Mayor.

The consistency with which Broadway produces a Horatio Alger story is one of our local phenomena, sufficiently regular in appearance to make you wonder if a fiction writer is not behind fate on the Main Stem

This year, it's Clifford Hyman, Max Gordon's ex-office boy, who became the producer of "Uncle Harry," a big hit. I can think of quite a number of office boys who made good in a notable way.

Herman Shumlin, for instance, once ran errands for Jed Harris in the long, long ago, and Edward Blatt, the Paramount talent scout, was an office boy, too.

Apparently the cartoonists are wrong and all office boys don't spend their afternoons at the baseball games.

I get quite an anticipatory tingle when I think of the July 4 premiere of Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army"—it ought to be a big night for the theater and a big moment for this nation at war.

I wish William Powell's producers would get a new plot for him—I'm beginning to yawn at the one in which he loses his memory and can't recall his real name, age, birthplace, or first wife.

He does it again in "Crossroads," giving you the impression that the producer who picked out the script for him hadn't seen any recent Powell pictures.

The theaters and restaurants around town have become much more sensible about air conditioning, and those sudden dips in temperature I used to encounter going indoors are no longer au fait, it seems.

A good thing, too, because in other years of painful memory, the only way to ward off a Summer-long case of sniffles was to be chaperoned around town by a St. Bernard dog, complete with flask of brandy.

I think Lili Damita must be the prettiest "minute man" in town. I'd like to be a fly on the wainscoting when she goes around ringing doorbells and asking for pledges.

In all the seasons I've been attending the theater, I have never seen such a complete collection of items of bad taste as were exhibited on the stage of the Music Box at the opening of "The Star and Garter." If Gypsy Rose Lee needs any excuse to retire permanently to her author's sanctum, this is it.

I wonder why, when the slightest drizzle descends upon the town, the automobile trafic situation becomes as complex and desperate as the evacuation from Dunkirk.

A hint of moisture and every motorist at his wheel seems to go crazy. A light rain becomes the signal for such horn-honking as to blot out our most effective sirens, and there appears to be a general conspiracy the moment a drop falls to prevent anyone from making a right or a left turn.

I've heard it blamed on the taxi drivers, but I'm inclined to discount that. I think it's the civilian motorists and pedestrians who lose their heads in a downpour, and I'm not sure I don't mean that literally.

Public Hearings Set for 'Little Steel'

TIRE RATIONING REGULATIONS ARE REVISED

Teachers Who Have Classes In Several Schools Get Recap Permits.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Teachers and public school officials who conduct several classes and travel from school to school are now eligible to buy tires and tubes under an amendment to tire rationing regulations, the office of price administration said today.

"Public school officials and teachers are given eligibility for recapped or obsolete new tires only when they need automobiles to get them from one school to another in areas where there is no other practicable mean of transportation," the OPA said.

Vehicles eligible for tires must be used principally to travel from school to school, it was announced. Certificates of eligibility will not be issued to any teacher or official whose duties are performed wholly at one school "as the purpose of the amendment is to make tires available to teachers who conduct classes in several schools."

The amendment provides:

1. A vehicle operated by a physician, surgeon, farm veterinarian or practicing minister must be used exclusively for professional services instead of "principally" to become eligible for tires and tubes.

2. Licensed chiropractors and osteopaths become eligible for tires and tubes under the same conditions as physicians.

3. The eligibility of ministers is extended to "any religious practitioner qualified to administer to the religious needs of the members of a congregation."

4. The designation of nurses eligible for tires and tubes is changed from "visiting nurse" to public health nurse.

Eligibility standards for doctors and ministers have been revised to require that applicants show their automobiles are necessary and that there is no other practicable means of transportation, the OPA said.

"Public health nurses" now eligible for tires and tubes include school nurses employed by boards of education, visiting nurses employed by groups such as public health nursing associations, health department nurses, county nurses and industrial nurses.

DELAYS CASE

Judge Wants Further Data on Boy Who Slashed Cows.

Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer yesterday afternoon continued for further investigation the case of a 15-year-old boy, who confessed slashing two cows on the Russell Daubenspeck farm south of Shelby because he didn't like farm work and he was "angry at Daubenspeck."

The youth, apprehended at Mt. Vernon, his former home, was returned to Mansfield for a hearing by Richland county deputy sheriffs. He is being held in the city jail.

The boy told the officers he slashed one cow's ear and another's mouth and destroyed a new hay rope before running away from the Daubenspeck farm where he had worked five days. He was charged with delinquency.

Ralph Carroll, county juvenile officer, said the court learned the boy had been in trouble at Mt. Vernon and wanted to contact authorities there before disposing of the case.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. BISSMAN

Wife of Wholesale Grocery President Dies; Rites To Be Conducted Wednesday.

Mrs. Franklin Bissman, 48, wife of the president of the Bissman company, Mansfield wholesale grocers, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at General hospital. Death was due to an embolism, according to attending physicians.

She had been recovering from an operation, performed recently and was to have been released soon from the hospital where death occurred.

The former Rosetta B. Spohn, she was born in Perrysville, Jan. 17, 1894. She came to Mansfield 32 years ago.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian church and leader of Circle No. 3 of the church's Ladies Guild. She was also active in the Parent-Teacher association, American Legion auxiliary and the Republican Women's clubs.

Surviving are her husband; her mother, Mrs. Nancy Jirsa, Park avenue west road; a son, Benjamin F. Bissman, jr., at home; and two sisters, Mrs. Marie Holmes of Galion and Mrs. G. E. Kalbfleisch, wife of Mansfield's municipal judge.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial where services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Wednesday, Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

DROTTNINGHOLM RETURNS AGAIN

Brings 900 Passengers Back From Europe's Port of Exodus.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—(INS)—The Swedith diplomatic liner Drottningholm today completed her second trip from Lisbon with American nationals caught in Europe at the outbreak of the war.

The 942 passengers include eight United States officials, four of them accompanied by their wives, as well as 42 Canadian and Latin-American nationals, some of them officials.

The arrival completed the second round trip to and from Europe in a repatriation program by which Axis officials and nationals were exchanged for Americans.

ENNIS BOOKED BY CEDAR POINT

Orchestra Booked For July 4 Week-End At Ballroom.

Skinnay Ennis, the singer-orchestra leader who takes most of the ribbing on the Bob Hope radio program, will bring his orchestra to Cedar Point's grand ballroom for the July 4 week-end and until July 9.

Ennis, former member of the Hal Kemp band, has appeared in a number of motion pictures and recently has participated in shows for more than 125,000 service men at camps throughout the country. Featured with the orchestra are Carmine Calhoun, vocalist, and Sonny Dawson, a yodeler.

TUBES PILE UP

Clevelanders Turn In 8 to 10 Tons Of Tin Containers.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The office of war information estimated today that Clevelanders have turned in from eight to ten tons of empty tooth paste and shaving cream tubes for reclamation of the tin they contain.

Five tons actually have been gathered here, and OWI estimated from three to five tons were still in the hands of neighborhood stores awaiting collection.

WESTINGHOUSE WORKERS HEAR ARMY, NAVY TALKS ON WAR WORK

Westinghouse workers in Mansfield were spurred on today in their current task of producing war materials by inspiring messages brought to them in a series of meetings yesterday with representatives of the Army and Navy.

The three identical meetings were staged to permit workers on all three shifts at the plant to receive the word direct from the fighting forces — the word that these workers in the Mansfield plant are playing a part of paramount importance in the nation's No. 1 job today.

Principal speaker for the Army was Captain S. F. O. Mavis from the Army Air Corps division at Fort Hayes. He was accompanied by nine enlisted men. Capt. Graves Taylor of the Cleveland Army Ordnance office, and Lieutenants C. G. Adcox, D. H. Munroe, and H. N. Carleton of Washington, also were present.

Lieut. A. E. Heiser, resident inspector of naval material, who has been stationed here for several months, was the Navy's official spokesman. The plant here is building naval radio equipment, and binoculars and shot for the Army.

Capt. Mavis told the employes that he appreciated fully the struggle for total conversion to war work that has been taking place in the plant here.

"You are doing a swell job," he said. "The question in this war is whether we can outproduce the Axis. It is an established fact that England and Russia combined cannot hope to exceed the Axis power to produce. It requires the full weight of America to swing the balance."

He listed actual figures revealing the tremendous Axis strides in productive capacity, and said:

"We're in this war together—you, the soldiers on the home front and we the soldiers on the battle front—and we are in it to win. It will be done by American ingenuity on the production line and on the firing line."

Lieut Heiser extended the Navy's compliments on the workers' accomplishments to date, and urged them to exert every effort to win the Navy "E." This stands for excellence and efficiency, he said, and also for "endeavor, enterprise, energy, endurance, and —perhaps above all—enthusiasm."

Sidney Earhart, president of the Westinghouse local union, spoke on behalf of labor, and used President Roosevelt's words:

"We can, we must, and we will win this war."

C. L. VanDerau, works manager, also addressed the group, and traced the job of converting the plant to war production. Music was provided by the Westinghouse local band.

Police, Firemen Keep Jobs as Columbus Council Acts.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Sixty-one policemen and 44 firemen will escape Mayor Floyd F. Green's "pay-as-you-go" furlough axe by action of a city council harassed by fiscal problems.

In a troublous session last night, the council approved general fund use of $200,000 in unclaimed gas refund money the city expects to receive.

Green said this action would enable him to reduce furloughs—scheduled for tomorrow—in the police department from 189 to 128, and in the fire department from 181 to 137. Reduction in rank to effect economies are planned among the remaining 180 policemen and 250 firemen.

Columbus' financial emergency resulted from legislation prohibiting refunding the municipal debt and the defeat by voters of a proposed 2.5 mill charter amendment levy.

DIES IN FALL

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Floyd H. Fulton, 64, was fatally injured when he fell while picking cherries from a tree in his back yard.

CAPTURED IN CHASE

ZANESVILLE —(INS)— William Ralph, 20, of Zanesville, and Paul Yerian, 21, of Columbus, who escaped from the Grafton prison farm three weeks ago, were in the custody of police today after they were captured following an 80-mile-an-hour automobile chase which ended in a ditch.

Up and Down THE STREET

Would-be contributors to the U.S.O. war fund campaign were asked today not to consider themselves "missed" in the house to house solicitation if they were not at home when the worker called. Instead they were requested to bring or send their contribution to the U.S.O. headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. this week in order to expedite the work of the solicitors. Mrs. John Pierce, chairman of solicitation, said the organization will wind up its door to door canvass this week.

If Robert Fisher, 314 East Fourth street, intends to drive his car, he'll have to figure some way to get two cement blocks to roll smoothly. Thieves removing the rear tire and wheels from Fisher's car yesterday, slipped the cement blocks under the axles to keep the car upright. Fisher gave police no estimate of the value of the tires and wheels but said that the tires had been driven only 3,000 miles.

Although wives usually don't have much to say about it when their husbands are called for army service, there are a few cases in which their statements carry some weight. When a married man who has listed some dependents seems too anxious to enlist, his draft board usually wants to talk to his wife to learn if there's something wrong in the home before he is accepted. Richland county boards have had several cases in which they first obtained the permission of the wife and her assurance that she and her children would be provided for before the husband was inducted into the army.

Last night was pretty warm for sleeping, so Mansfield police didn't consider it necessary to steal blankets to sleep in the park. Police arrested two youths today at 3:05 a. m. in Liberty park. They claimed the youths were wrapped in blankets stolen from the sons of Andrew Karsmizki, Fifth avenue, caretaker of the park. Karsmizki reported to police that the youths stole some fishing tackle and blankets from his son at the park last evening.

IT'S COSTLY!

War Boosts U. S. Expenditures To 32 Billion in Year.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Having spent in 12 months more than the entire cost of the first World war, the treasury closed books today on the costliest fiscal year in its history.

It was a temporary record, though, because the budget for the new fiscal year beginning tomorrow is more than double the old year's.

Exact figures won't be available for a few days, but preliminary tabulations showed that in the last year the treasury spent $26,000,000,000 for direct war purposes plus enough more for other governmental activities (some of which were related to the war) to make an expenditures total of approximately $32,500,000,000.

The previous one year spending record (for all purposes) was $18,522,895,000 in the 12 months which ended June 30, 1919—the last year of the first World war. Last year's total was more than twice as much as the $12,710,629,823 spent in the preceding year.

WAGE BOOST FORESEEN IN WLB REPORT

Fact-Finding Panel Declares Companies Able To Pay; Closed Shop Fight Looms.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The war labor board today prepared to hold public hearings on the long-standing "Little Steel" disputes as government officials predicted that a substantial wage increase and maintenance of membership will be ordered for the 157,000 workers involved in the case.

Representatives of the CIO's United Steel Workers and the four "Little Steel" companies will present their cases to the board at public hearings starting tomorrow. Following the hearings, the board will draw up a settlement of the controversies between the USW and the Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Bethlehem and Inland Steel companies.

Pointing to the report by the board's fact-finding panel, officials said there is every indication that the WLB will order a wage increase. Spokesmen refused to predict whether the board will grant the full $1-a-day increase demanded by the union, but they expressed belief that the pay hike will be "substantial."

In its report, the panel ruled that a wage increase is justified because:

The four companies are able to pay the wage increase demanded by the USW; the buying power of the steel worker has decreased approximately 13.3 per cent since the last general wage increase in the steel industry, and weekly earnings in other durable goods industries indicate an increase in 1942 exceeding an increase in the steel workers' earnings.

In a formal statement, inland contested the panel's ruling that comparative wages justify a pay increase for the steel workers. The statement said that to consider weekly earnings as the basis for comparable wages "would subject the workers in the overtime industry to gross injustice."

Officials believe that the important issue at the hearings will involve around the companies' fight against any type of union security. They pointed out that the panel report suggesting maintenance of membership defies the steel industry's traditional "open shop" policy.

At least one company—inland—has already indicated several times that it might challenge the power of the board to impose any form of the closed shop.

Spokesmen predicted that the board will order a maintenance of membership clause in the contracts between the USW and the companies similar to the pattern set recently by WLB decisions in union security disputes.

Home Guard Gets 'Steamed Up' But It's All Mistake

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The home guard at Washington Court House got "steamed up" for possible duty today but it was all the result of a misunderstanding.

Adj. Gen. Donald F. Pancoast, commanding officer of the Ohio State Guard, said a routine query about the state of preparedness for mobilization confused an officer of the guard's special weapons company there.

Because the query asked if preparations had been made to obtain 24-hour rations for the company of 50 men immediately in event of emergency, Pancoast said, the officer mistook it for an order to stand by for possible mobilization within 24 hours.

"The men were pretty steamed up," Pancoast said until they learned of the mistake about midnight, nearly 12 hours after the query. Some of the officers and men had gone to the armory there to check equipment, he said.

"They might have been there all night if the confusion hadn't been cleared up," he said.

A Man's Woman + + +

CHAPTER IXX

The National Candy company, located off Lafayette street in the business sector of mid-New York hummed with activity. The home of N. C. C. was a solid block of red brick buildings and what seemed to be acres of plate glass. The difference between a hive and this great monument of modern business was that National's home was occupied by human beings instead of bees, and that it had to do with candy instead of with honey.

Standing beside a desk in the west wing, in a partitioned office shared by a half dozen other workers, Kay Kenyon was saying:

"Yes, Mr. Burge, the models for the Cinderella and the Chocolate Soldier displays are ready, with the exception of the toy coaches. The coach I used in my original had been an import, a kind of family piece for a couple of generations. We weren't able to find a single Cinderella coach on the market. They'll have to be made. Nu-Novelties, Inc., gave us the best price. They do the best work, too. They can have the coaches ready within a week."

"A week! Humph! Did you have one of our men go over it with the Nu people?" Burge was a die-hard who still believed this should be strictly a man's world. He disliked women in his department. Promotion of products was high pressure business. If women wanted to exert high pressure, let them do it in their homes.

"Mr. Ellis went over the matter thoroughly with them," Kay said, determined not to be frightened by the gruffness of the department head.

"He too believes Nu-Novelties offers the best proposition."

Burge said, significantly, "If Ellis says so, it's so. Tell him to place the order. Make it snappy. Delays cost the company money."

"Yes sir," Kay said. A stab of loneliness made her feel a little bit ill. Loneliness was not a state of mind, of heart only. It could be poignant physical pain. The old happy relation with Mr. Lord in the Sweet Shop. Bessie, busy among the trays. The walk home in the cooling evening. Petunias along the worn walk, even the ragged petunias were beautiful, precious. So many times she hadn't even seen them. If she could see them now . . .

Ed Ellis was a brick young man with a round face and a hearty laugh. He had taken the trouble to be friendly with the new young woman in the department. He called her, the Ideal Girl. The boss certainly had it in for the ladies. One must have given him a terrific sock to make him such a sore-head.

Kay sought Ed Ellis' desk.

"Mr. Burge has approved the coaches from Nu-Novelties," she said. "He wants them as quickly as possible. He said to tell you to put through the order right away."

Ellis leaned back in his chair. "What goes on, Miss Kenyon," he asked, chattily. "You sound sort of droopy."

"Nothing." Kay forced a smile. "I guess I'm a wee bit homesick. New York is so big . . . and strange. I guess it frightens me."

"Aw now," he said reassuringly, "don't let it get you down. New York is just like any other town, only there's more of it. I know it seems pretty hard and unsociable. That's because you haven't learned to get under its skin. Right now you're in the grandest little burg in the world. You wait and see."

"I hope so. But when you've always lived in a small town where you know everyone—its different. Perhaps it's because people here are so busy that makes them sound abrupt."

Ellis grinned up at Kay. "The boss, eh? Barking again. Skip it, Miss Kenyon. His bark is a lot worse than his bite. He's allergic to women, especially to women who work in his office. He'll get over it when he sees you're on your toes. You show him you've got plenty on the ball and he'll be gentle as a lamb."

"But suppose I haven't plenty on the ball? I'm only a beginner at this work; I've had practically no preparation."

Honest admiration shone in Ellis' round blue eyes.

"You had plenty of what it takes when you doped out the two displays we're using," he affirmed. "There must be more where those came from. Just you dig around and see if you don't turn up another smash hit. And keep the chin up. Droopy chins are bad news in this town."

Kay, hurrying to her room at the close of what seemed an endless day, had a desire that amounted to an obsession — to close a door behind her; to shut out the noise of the city.

Two weeks. Was it only two weeks ago that she said farewell to Somerset, blinked back the tears so that her mother would not know how painful was the wrench of even a temporary parting. Ellen Kenyon had insisted that Kay must go ahead and establish herself before they undertook a definite move.

"You see how you like New York and your work first, dear," Ellen counseled. "If you do like it, find a small place for us to live. I'll send some of our things to scatter around so it will seem like home."

"I don't like leaving you here with Aunt Cora." Kay hesitated. "You'll promise, cross your heart, you won't let her heckle you?"

"Cross my heart," Ellen promised. "It's only for a little while. After all, if I'm to live in a great city like New York I'll have to learn how to take my own part."

Cora Kenyon and Elsa went for a week's visit with a relative in a near-by town the day before Kay left Somerset. They had scarcely spoken to her since she announced her decision to accept the New York offer. Uncle Asa bade her a fleeting Godspeed the morning of her departure. He was uncomfortable, distrait. He found escape in a fishing trip he'd promised to make with another fellow.

Until the moment Kay left, Ronnie Farnsworth had continued to propose, sometimes with logic, sometimes with urgency, sometimes with a frank plea for his own selfish desire, his need for her.

Over and over again he repeated, "Why should you go in for a career, Red? You're not the type. You're a man's woman, the kind a man wants to love and cherish and protect. You belong here among your friends, the people you've always known; with your own home, a husband, maybe later —a family."

"Thanks Ronnie, you've a dear." Kay had closed her ears against the ardent pleas; her heart, she felt reasonably sure, was already closed. Or was it? Love is such a trickster. Suppose she did love Ronnie in a quiescent way, a way which prevented her from realizing the truth. In this case she would know soon enough. Separation would quicken a latent love into a flame she could not mistake.

That night in the garden, the moon, the stars. Gary so tender, so dear.

Two weeks ago, that was. Two weeks or two years? So long it seemed . . . the long evening ahead and thoughts, thoughts, thoughts.

Telephone! the tingling ran through Kay like an electric shock. Who would be calling her? Who, except her mother? She was living in a modest hotel, "Ladies Only" in the East Twenties. A white collar hotel. Fred Jones had made the arrangements. Eminently respectable and reasonably priced. Endowed by plush matrons of ample fortune who would part with a fat check in order to be mentioned in the social columns as "the beneficent Mrs. Umpty-Ump."

Kay picked up the receiver. A man's voice answered her "Hello" with, "Hello yourself. This is Ed Ellis from the office. Mrs. Ellis came in for a load of spaghetti. We know a good place. We thought you might like to join us. We'll pick you up in . . . say fifteen minutes, if you say the word."

"Why—why—yes, of course... and thanks, I'd love it. Thanks for thinking of me. I'll be waiting for you." Kay put up the receiver. She wanted to move, but felt anchored to the chair. What was wrong with her? She was shaking, and she felt empty, hollow, like a shell that gives out that peculiar roaring sound from its emptiness. Was she going to be ill? No, no. Nonsense. She was homesick, that was her ailment. Good old-fashioned homesick. Or was she?

Escape from the debacle of the Kenyon fortunes was scarcely a lament. Rather it was a smile, tossed her way by a gracious Providence.

Here she was, in the fabulous city of New York, with opportunity sitting at her elbow, with work to do, with health, with a good friend like Ed Ellis to take her into his family circle and keep her from the loneliness that can made a city of millions a frightening tomb.

"Why then this emptiness, this feeling of utter futulity? When she had picked up the receiver she knew again in that surge of warmth, of excitement, of clamorous expectancy that was a dizziness in the head, but a dear delightful dizziness. Gary!

Kay walked to the dressing-table, began making swift motions with determined hands. She must stop being ridiculous. She must stop being giddy in the head and gallopy in her heart. She must!

When Ed Ellis, waiting for her in the lobby gave her his quick smile, he said; "you're looking a bit pale, Katy, but interesting. We'll fix up the color scheme. A few platters of spaget and you'll bloom like the rose-bush in grandma's garden."

Garden! Gary! Memory was a living presence.

LAUNCH MORALS INQUIRY IN BRITISH WOMEN'S SERVICES

(By International News Service)

LONDON — While the growing ranks of the British women's services watch with a great deal of trepidation, a government committee of five women and three men today is completing a searching investigation into the morals of the young ladies of the ATS, WAAF, and WRNS.

And if the committee's report bears out current predictions, it will contain at once a whitewashing of the uniformed girls—and a tightening up of regulations: a sort of declaration that "you kids are all right, but we're going to be darned sure you stay that way."

Tip-off on the outcome of the inquiry came from Chairwoman Miss Violet Markham at the outset. At the first meeting of her group, "a Spartan decency" was the standard of life agreed upon for the women's services.

"We all ought to live plain and rough," said Miss Markham. "But there is a dividing line between suitable and unsuitable plainness and roughness. Our hardest job is to fix this line."

When stories of immorality among women volunteers and conscripts first broke out—even finding their way into the house of commons—a great cry of indignation arose, accompanied by furious denials on all sides.

Yet, by implication, Miss Thelma Cazalet, M. P., admitted that maybe one tenth of the stories were true: "We all know," she said, "the things that are being said about the women's services —nine tenths of it rumor."

Miss Cazalet, Miss Eleanor Rathbone, and Mrs. Mavis Tate led a successful rebellion in the house of commons against the original investigating committee, composed of five men between the ages of 42 and 62 and no women.

"What particular qualifications," the women M. P.'s demanded, "do these men have for dealing with problems which include morals and dress?"

So the committee went to work, after it was reconstructed to include a majority of women. Their job, nearing completion, was to inquire into the standards, amenities, and welfare conditions in the three women's services — with especial emphasis on charges that "amenities" sometimes include a bit of necking.

Perhaps, too, the committee is taking into consideration the following case, which is reproduced verbatim as reported by the London Evening Standard:

"When Margaret Jane Phillips, 20, was accused at Bromley today of being an absentee from a Royal Artillery station, she said she was very uncomfortable at the camp.

"'We are not allowed to lock the doors at night — even the bedroom doors — and civilian men get into our huts,' she declared.

"'Go back and be as happy as you can,' the court chairman, Sir Waldron Smithers, M. P., advised her."

To this was appended: "Press Association learns from the War office instructions have been issued that all ATS sleeping quarters must be placed out of bounds to soldiers."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JUNE 30, 1942.

June will end at midnight—and the 1942 game will go into the second half with both teams confident.

It may be a good idea for a club to have an exceptionally poor program occasionally—so as to make the mediocre ones tolerable.

Whether or not Italy's war effort is to be taken seriously, the Libyan debacle shows that Mussolini is giving Hitler a helping hand whenever possible.

War Chest Plan Approved

DECISION to establish a War Chest in Mansfield and Richland county, for the purpose of concentrating fund-raising activities into one annual campaign, follows a course decided upon and carried through during the first World war, and the plan is already meeting with enthusiastic approval wherever it has been adopted.

Last night's meeting, at which approval of the project was unanimously given, was attended by representatives of many local organizations and groups, and there was general accord with the idea that a liberally supported War Chest would not only give this city and county creditable representation in a number of the national war relief agencies but would also provide funds for support of local agencies through customary Community Chest channels.

A strong argument in favor of the War Chest is that it relieves the public of week after week solicitation of money for various causes and that it conserves time of volunteer workers who usually are busy with other phases of general war activity.

It also saves money by eliminating duplicate campaign organizations and brings to the community a unity of purpose which is a valuable asset.

Preliminary steps toward a complete set-up for Mansfield's War Chest inspire confidence in the efficiency and soundness of operation that may be expected and no better choice could have been made than that of Henry G. Brunner as chairman of the executive committee. It was during his service as mayor of Mansfield that Mr. Brunner was actively identified with the War Chest program carried through in 1918 and his ability and wide acquaintanceship in the community will be helpful in organizing and directing this movement.

What's To Be Done With Spies?

CAPTURE of eight Nazi spies, who were landed in the United States from a submarine, is less disconcerting than the fact that these men were able to make immediate contact with like-thinking "associates," all dedicated to the purpose of wrecking vital American war industries.

The fact that two of these spies class as "American citizens," and that one served for a time in the Michigan national guard, gives an idea of the shrewdness with which Nazi intrigue was injected into the United States during pre-war years and the innocence of many people in assuming that such alien activity was among the "rights" accorded by the constitution.

Familiar with procedure in their own Germany, under similar conditions, it is probably quite a surprise to these six spies and two traitors to find that they are still alive, as this would be unlikely in the event of enemy spies being caught by the gestapo in Naziland.

The FBI did good work in nabbing these fellows before they had opportunity to carry out any of their destructive plans, but the danger is by no means ended and a show of leniency in handling these cases would give encouragement to further efforts at infiltration, and also hearten active or potential saboteurs at liberty in the United States.

The present situation inside and outside of this country is too critical to permit sentiment to influence against the customary punishment of spies and traitors.

Intermission for Bond-Selling

ALWAYS, when there is something to be done in a community, or as a part of a county, state or national activity, it is the retail merchants and their employes who are looked to for a large amount of help.

Now the call is to make July a "Retailers for Victory" month in the sale of War Savings bonds and stamps, and, as usual, the response is prompt and whole-hearted.

At noon tomorrow, for a 15-minute period, customary merchandising activities will be briefly suspended in Mansfield stores and selling will be devoted entirely to War Savings bonds and stamps.

Afterward the regular routine of supplying patrons with needed merchandise will be resumed—but all through the month of July merchants and clerks will emphasize the importance of buying as many bonds and stamps as possible.

Richland county has been complimented by a considerable increase in the July quota of bonds to be sold—the new goal being $587,000 as compared with $392,000 in June—and the start will be made tomorrow, in a determined way, to reach that lofty figure.

Be down town at noon tomorrow—it will be one of those occasions that live in memory.

Concentrated Leadership Lacking

THE WRATH of the British people rose lately on account of the disaster in Libya, added to many previous disasters. More action was demanded. Major George Fielding Eliot put the general situation in a nutshell when he said: "War cannot be conducted by a committee. The essence of committee leadership is discussion, whereas the essence of individual leadership is decision."

It is pointed out by American as well as British critics that the debacles of Malaya, Singapore, Burma, the East Indies, and lately Libya, while due seemingly to unpreparedness, have been caused largely by lack of concentrated leadership and authority. MacArthur and Wavell, Auchinleck, and others, may all be good; but their authority and areas of command have been divided, and often they have seemed to work at cross purposes.

Obviously there should be unity of command as there was finally in the last war. Churchill now controls the British effort through his Ministry of Defense, and President Roosevelt has authority over the American effort when he chooses to exercise it. But commanders in the field have had large discretion.

The rising clamor, and the situation itself, call for creation of a commander-in-chief who, with competent advisers, can direct the entire war effort of the United Nations.

Study Food Bonus for Dependents

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It hasn't even been hinted yet, but several government departments are working on a food bonus plan for dependents of men called into the armed forces.

It will be some sort of variation of the food stamp plan and therein lies reason for the delay in bringing it to public attention. Agriculture, OPA, WPB, and the Army all are afraid that the public will think of it in terms of a dole. That might be fatal to the morale of dependents whose breadwinners are in military service.

If and when the government agencies involved can be certain that the terminology of their plan won't bring psychological repercussions from the public, minor differences will be ironed out and the plan will be laid before congress.

THE idea would be to issue food stamps, either as an additional bonus or as part of the dependency payments made to wives and children of men called into military service. These would be redeemable for all merchandise (or perhaps under certain terms beneficial to the purchaser for surplus commodity merchandise) sold in grocery stores. The government would take them up, paying the store out of funds set aside for reimbursement of dependents of men drafted into the armed forces.

While the several wartime agencies are fretting over details, they agree that the main objective is to avoid the flood of criticism that poured down on the original food stamp plan. Merchants, who later hailed the food stamp as a boon to sales and stock turnover, at first screamed so loudly that they contributed much to the fight in congress over the proposal. Voters who damned it as a variation of the dole contributed the rest.

Those well-meaning government workers (mostly in the Department of Agriculture) who fought that battle through are still a bit shy of launching another campaign which they fear may have similar counter-attacks and repercussions.

THE wartime realists, many of whom are new to the intricacies of national opinion (sometimes called politics) have a different slant. The primary purpose of payments to dependents of the fighting men, they argue, is to see that they are assured of food and shelter. Why, then, shouldn't a portion of the payments be made in food or stamps redeemable in food

This would be insurance that some proportion of the payments went into the channels for which it was intended; would prevent grafters and racketeers from preying upon dependents, many of whom are unaccustomed to handling their own finances; and under certain regulations might stimulate the purchase of surplus food commodities.

It may be held back until after the November elections on the grounds that the political sky is already too clouded for comfort. In view of the assurance from senators that no men with actual dependents are to be called up for military service this year anyway, the delay would be logical. But the plan definitely is "in the works."

Shortage of Doctors

Editor News-Journal:

The American people sit around criticizing the terrible complacency of the British at Singapore and Alexandria, apparently little realizing that they are doing the same sort of "fiddling."

By word of mouth, I have attempted to educate my patients and to influence my own profession and the hospital as to what I now have to say. I am afraid that so far very few have realized the urgent necessity for action.

I wonder if the people of Mansfield know that within a short space of two weeks, they will have less than half the doctors in Mansfield that they had one year ago, or do they have to be told in terms that will astound them.

That means that they are not going to have a very free choice of doctors and that the time the doctor will be able to give them will be minimal; that house calls may have to be made the third or fourth day after asked for instead of thirty minutes afterward; that there will be no more frills to the practice of medicine and that patients can not be babied and pampered at all any more.

The situation is far more serious than I can possibly put in words. Since I am probably going to be included in the number that will be taken in service, it means nothing particularly to me, but I believe the public and my fellow doctors will have to cooperate beyond their present imagination in order to distribute medical care with a semblance of adequacy.

Let me make a few suggestions of how the situation may be helped: first, let the public get out of their minds that they are doing the doctor a favor by calling him, and be willing to accept whatever doctor they may be able to get, without complaint. If the work is distributed properly, all patients should get adequate care.

Second, when seeing the doctor, please state your case briefly and move along as quickly as possible so the next patient may be seen. Third, don't ask for house calls unless 100 per cent necessary.

Fourth, postpone elective operations as long as possible; and, fifth, but not least, I think the community should figure out a way of increasing hospital beds enormously. I believe the most feasible plan is to build a barracks plan hospital as the army does, preferably connected to, and run by our present hospital organization.

If a number of beds were provided in this way, the biggest percentage of acute illnesses could be moved into this hospital and taken care of far more adequately than at home and with an expenditure of only a fifth or tenth of the doctor's time necessary to make the same number of house calls. I think this latter suggestion is terrifically important, and I hope that some one will accept the challenge to see that it goes through.

If the public will only play half as fair with the doctors as I am sure the doctors will try to be with them, the situation ought to be controlled.

Timely Editorial

"I Never, Never, Make a Mistake."

It seems almost impossible for any government official to get up enough nerve to admit that he ever made a mistake. The rule laid down in the familiar verse is inflexible:

I never, never, made a mistake
I'd like to for variety's sake.

Which suggests how refreshing it would be if the Office of Price Administration should put out a brief statement to this effect:

"Early in the year we thought our sugar supply would run short and decided rationing was necessary. So the restrictions are off, and please excuse us."

As soon as the country got over the shock from the frankness of the OPA it would rise up and give three cheers for one government official, namely Leon Henderson, who was big enough to admit he once had been wrong. — Kansas City Star.

Is Nation's Public School System Valuable Asset Or Enemy Alien?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARE you a taxpayer? A parent? Or just a common garden-variety of American citizen? Then here are some facts which should hit you right where you live:

They've been having a grand shindy in San Francisco between the Board of Education and the Metal Trades Council. My eyes do not sparkle with pride as I relate this, for I happen to be a San Franciscan myself and am not particularly keen on washing our dirty linen in public. However, since said dirty linen is messing up the records of a large majority of our American public schools, I believe a general broadcast is in order.

The immediate hullaballoo in San Francisco concerns the need for war preparation—welding, radio, general mechanics, etc., both in summer schools and regular courses. Swarms of men and boys from 16 up were clamoring for such instruction in order both to serve their nation and to promote their own futures. And plenty of machinery could be had on application to the federal government.

But the San Francisco high schools were not interested. Particularly they were not interested in summer courses. Moreover they had no intention of being pushed around on the subject. Why should a mere army, air or navy man dictate their scholastic program to them?

So some of the machines already received were sent to Oakland, across the bay, or distributed among country high schools where they would be used for six hours a day instead of the three eight-hour shifts which justified their investment. In vain the navy pleaded and the army sputtered. The long privileged and protected board of education stood pat on its decision — no mechanical summer courses, no compulsory courses at any time as preparation for military duties.

So the navy retreated muttering and the army surrendered mumbling, and it is to be presumed that the educational lords grinned complacently to themselves as they emerged triumphant. But they had grinned too soon. Up rose the metal trades council and gave 'em Cain in no uncertain terms.

What, roared they in plain two-fisted words, did the Board of Education mean by letting its splendidly equipped high schools stand idle at the most critical time in our history, while men clamored for instruction? Why were not such courses made compulsory in every boy's or perhaps every girl's school course, war or no war? Why should they, the educators of the most expensive and highly vaunted school system on earth, loaf around through the summer when all the other men in America, young and old, were making unprecedented sacrifices for their country?

It was a dilly, that shindy. By the time it was through its echoes reverberated from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate and the whole American school system stood arraigned in words of one syllable. Today the San Francisco board of education is said to be getting into line with the war program. Well, maybe. But whether they do or not, the metal trades council of San Francisco has started a long-needed something. They've made the whole nation stop and ask whether our highly publicized school system is a treat and a treasure or an actual enemy alien, largely responsible for the growing delinquency of youth.

There are thousands of remarkable schools in this country which are meeting every requirement, and this column has publicized them with pride. But how about the others?

Take our country schools for example. I am thinking of a particularly impressive high school located in a town of approximately 2800, whose buildings and equipment, representing an investment of some $500,000, could easily challenge any educational outfit in America. It instructs between 400 and 600 students annually, youngsters drawn almost exclusively from mining and ranching districts. Nine out of ten of these youngsters will marry girls from their own territory and carry on their fathers' and mothers' jobs with cattle and ore.

YET NEITHER DOMESTIC SCIENCE NOR "SHOP" COURSES ARE COMPULSORY IN THIS HIGH SCHOOL. THE CHILDREN CAN "TAKE THEM IF THEY CHOOSE" BUT THOUGH MOST OF THE BOYS PREFER SHOP OR RADIO, FEW OF THE GIRLS CARE TO TAKE UP COOKING OR SEWING. AS A CONSEQUENCE, THE MOST VITAL YEARS OF THEIR LIVES ARE SPEND FOOLING AROUND WITH ACADEMIC WORK WHICH WILL BE OF LITTLE OR NO USE IN THEIR FUTURE CAREERS. AND THEY EMERGE AS WET BEHIND THE EARS AS THE WERE WHEN THEY ENTERED. THIS SAME CONDITION APPLIES TO THE BUSINESS COURSES, WHERE NOT ONE BOY OR GIRL OUT OF A THOUSAND IS WORTH SHUCKS AS AN OFFICE HELPER. I KNOW. I'VE TRIED THEM. THEY'RE BRIGHT KIDS, AS FINE AS ANY IN THE LAND, BUT THEIR SCHOOL IS FAILING THEM TRAGICALLY. SO WHAT? WHAT'S YOUR ANSWER? HOW DOES THE HIGH SCHOOL IN YOUR DISTRICT CHECK UP AS A PRACTICAL AMERICAN INSTITUTION?

Have you ever bothered to investigate? Does your girl bring home a cook book to study? Does your boy know anything about maps and blueprints? Or are they simply being trained to be white-collar washouts?

YES, I'm asking and I want to publish your answers in this column. Your name and address will be regarded as confidential but must be given as a guarantee of good faith. Go down to your high school. Find what use is really being made of your tax money—and your child. Then give us the works for America to read.

The question became: what does a canon wear on his head? Dick Maney, an ex-altar boy and now Broadway publicist, could not recall what a canon wore . . . He put in a call for another ex-altar boy, one Willard Keefe, Broadway publicist for Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" and a former AP writer . . . Keefe suspected a canon wore a biretta, but wasn't sure . . . "Call up Benziger's, a firm that deals in accoutrements of the church," Keefe suggested . . . Maney at once got Benziger's on the wire, and was told there were no canons in this country, save one at Bradley's Beach . . . Did he think the canon might wear a biretta? Yes, indeed. Would a cardinal wear a biretta also? . . . "Centrainly not," exclaimed the gentleman at Benziger's . . . "A cardinal has his own hat—something like a half-story Jewish derby—one of those undersling affairs that comes down over the ears." . . . If you want to make a note of it, so that you won't forget, we repeat . . . a canon does definitely wear a biretta . . . a cardinal does not.

A Farmer's Diary

Turtle Doves

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY WIFE helped me husk some scattered ears of corn that were on or near the ground all last winter. We were surprised how well the covering sheltered each ear and how free from decay they were, even when flat upon the ground. Before the field was plowed, I borrowed a trailer and we hauled the corn up to the barn bridge and left it to dry before storing it in the granary.

Hardly had we finished hauling until it rained, and kept on raining intermittently for two foggy, drizzly days. The heaps of ears are still on the barn bridge waiting for the sun. Our hens have enjoyed a diet of worms from the wet plowed field, laying mash from the indoor feeder, and occasional bites of corn. Seven small pigs foraging about the barn, appreciate the freedom of the banquet place. Little troops of English sparrows stop at the very edge and with distorted necks wiggle this way and that until the terrible grain is in their little crop. Some starlings came, and apparently fared much better. A flaming cardinal came modestly, with his mate, to sample the most distant ear. It was not to their liking, and both left, much disgusted.

A pair of turtledoves lit near the corner of the barn then ventured closer. I sat in the car about 20 feet away, and watched. Both pecked the grain from the ear and ate with relish. When the dog frightened them away, they returned to feed again.

I knew they were in the air by the peculiar sound they make, with throat and wing. They stayed very close together and when the female suddenly flew down to the plowed field, he was so much concerned that he enlarged his pretty neck and began to coo. Although he could not see her, for the barn obscured his view, he went unerringly to where she sat. These birds differ widely in habits from most common birds. The female lays her two eggs in the crotch of a tree or even in a hollow of a stump. A few coarse careless twigs may perhaps be laid beneath.

Once last summer I saw the mother place her beak within that of her yougster and ingest food from her own crop, as is the habit of the pigeon family. After she had fed one little bird she went away for a half hour, roamed about the fields, then returned and fed the other. She could not mistake the hungry one, because of his eager screams and open mouth. These birds drink from a pool like a horse or cow, leaving their beaks in the water until satisfied.

Like the pigeons, they are a devoted couple. If one dies, the other abstains from food, mourns with bowed head and ruffled feathers, until from loneliness and grief it too succumbs.

U. S. FLIERS HIT AXIS, SLOW UP EGYPT DRIVE

Americans Pound Rommel's Columns, Bomb Tobruk; Alexandria Raided.

the face of stubborn enemy resistance."

A midday bulletin from Red army headquarters said the Germans lost 1,500 men in attempts to breach Sevastopol's defenses and declared Soviet counter-attacks sent "the Hitlerities retreating into their initial positions."

The Russians had previously conceded dangerous new German gains in the 25-day-old battle for the Crimean stronghold, while Nazi dispatches asserted that the fight "has entered its final stage."

On the rekindled Kursk front, 130 miles north of Kharkov, the Russians said they had again repulsed Nazi offensive thrusts.

"Our troops repulsed large enemy tank attacks with success," the Russian command said.

A British broadcast said "one of the greatest air struggles of the war is now being fought out" over the Kursk and Kharkov sectors, where Gen. Fedor von Bock's invasion armies were driving eastward in an attempt to cut off Soviet communications between Moscow and the Caucasus.

Although the outlook in the seven-day-old battle of Egypt was still grave, there were indications that American airmen and planes and New Zealand reinforcements were stiffening the weary British armies.

In Cairo, an American military observer just back from the front declared:

"While the situation cannot be classified as good after such reverses as have been suffered in the desert, it certainly is not hopeless and looks better now than a few days ago.

"The RAF has kept control of the air, and this has had a tremendous effect on the morale of the troops."

The commentators said that in the latest phases of the withdrawal, the British retreated in complete order, leaving nothing to fall into the hands of the enemy.

British military quarters scoffed at Axis claims that Gen. Rommel's invaders "stormed" Matruh, asserting that the fortress had been stripped and left as a "ghost town" dummy to make Rommel use up his supplies while the British quietly slipped away to new defense positions.

In Cairo, Premier Mustapha Hahas Pasha told the Egyptian parliament he had received a message from British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declaring:

"The British government not only are quite determined to defend Egyptian territory against any aggression but have the means and power to do so."

In aerial warfare, RAF squadrons, perhaps 300 strong, "heavily bombed" German's big U-boat lair at Bremen during the night, the British air ministry announced, and attacked airdromes in Nazi-occupied territory.

Nine RAF bombers were acknowledged missing.

It was the third RAF attack on Bremen in five nights, and a Berlin broadcast indicated that big fires were raging in the port.

German night raiders carried out small attacks against the English industrial Midlands and East Anglia.

Nazis Claim Advance East of Matruh

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) —(AP)— Axis armored columns driving on after their occupation of Matruh, have reached the area of Fuka, 45 miles east of Matruh, the German high command declared today.

After the fall of Matruh "German and Italian tank formations threw the beaten enemy further back," said the communique.

"Strong German and Italian air formations successfully attacked lines of retreat and defense formations of the British, mainly south of the Arabs' gulf," it continued.

Reds Pierce Nazi Line on Kusk Front

MOSCOW —(AP)— Soviet forces on the Kursk front above Kharkov have cut off German infantry forces which pierced their lines in several sectors and more than 200 Nazi tanks have been smashed in two days, the army publication Red Star reported today in the first detailed account of the massive new battle raging in that area.

The frontline account said that Marshal Timoshenko's defenders closed in quickly behind the wedges driven by the Nazis before supporting tanks could be brought up in this battle which perhaps represents the beginning of Hitler's general offensive up and down the front.

With the enormous tank losses inflicted upon the Germans, Red Star said much of the sting had been drained from the German attack and that Red defenders hurled back subsequent German attacks.

Russian Battery Stands to Last Man

MOSCOW —(AP)— . . . fire upon our positions."

With this dramatic message to their own artillery a gallant Red army battery, hopelessly surrounded by the Germans on the Sevastopol front, wrote its own heroic epitaph, Russian dispatches said today.

Under murderous assault by German planes, artillery and infantry, the battery held out for three days and died to the last man rather than surrender.

U. S. Fliers Level Wake In Long Raid

HEADQUARTERS, Hawaiian Air Force—(AP)—American army bombers, striking at the enemy in probably the longest over-water bombing flight ever made, have dealt new destruction to tiny Wake island, which the Japanese seized at a high cost last Dec. 23.

Sweeping over the strategic atoll under full moonlight last Saturday night, the bombers hit all their targets, set the main building afire, leveled everything on the surface, and returned to their base without casualties and without the loss of a plane.

Col. Art W. Meehan, pilot of one of the bombers and a former quarterback at West Point, said it "probably was the longest range over-water bombing flight ever achieved." Wake is 2,000 nautical miles west of Pearl Harbor and a little more than 1,000 miles southwest of Midway island.

"We gave them everything we took over."

of the city's dentists in the army. He received the rank of first lieutenant.

Of the eight Mansfielders commissioned, two received the rank of captains and the others became first lieutenants. Those receiving captaincies were Drs. Clarence H. Bell and Erling A. Smedal. Commissioned as first lieutenants were Drs. George L. Evans, Myron S. Reed, Charles G Brown, Ralph E. Wharton, and Robert G. Angle.

Dr. Brown is the only one of the group who already has his orders. He is to report at the army embarkation point in New Orleans on July 11. It is believed he may be on the way to service in Africa.

The others commissioned yesterday were Dr. Paul E. Adolph, Bellevue, captain; Drs. Alexander D. Robertson and Theodore V. Gerlinger, Willard, first lieutenants; Dr. Everett C. Burgess, Wooster, first lieutenant; and Dr. Riley E. Frush, Lexington, first lieutenant.

Those commissioned yesterday represent only about one-fourth of the doctors and dentists who applied for commissions when the board held its first session in Mansfield on June 15. Approximately the same number were rejected for physical reasons or deferred as essential.

A score of others, a majority of whom are Mansfield physicians, applied for commissions on June 15, and six others—four dentists and two physicians, submitted their applications with the board yesterday.

The board has no plans for returning to Mansfield, according to the officers in charge, Major H. S. Perry and Captain C. E. Northrup. Those whose applications are pending will receive notification or rejection in a few days.

Papers involving three others—all Mansfield physicians, have been submitted to the surgeon general in Washington for action as to grade They have been recommended for commissions as majors, it was understood. The board is authorized to confer only the ranks of captain and lieutenant.

If, as anticipated, 10 more Mansfield physicians enter the army, there will be one doctor left in the city for each 1,360 of the population here, and the city will have less than half of the 55 physicians in active practice here a year ago. Four of the city's dentists are in the army, another was commissioned yesterday, and four others are expected to receive commissions shortly.

If expansion of the army continues as expected, the number of physicians left in civilian practice in Mansfield and other cities of the nation will be one for each 2,000 of populaton, according to present plans.

Faints While Alone In Plane

While flying over the Ann Arbor City airport, Michigan, Joan Tesch, 19, fell into a faint which lasted an hour. During that time her plane flew in erratic circles, but luckily remained aloft. After recovering from the faint, she landed, and promptly fainted again. Joan is seen at her home, apparently recovered from the effects of her harrowing skyride.

Be Down Town Tomorrow To Attend Noisy War Bond Show

J. R. Harrington, airport manager. A sound truck will circulate through the downtown area playing martial songs and the sirens of fire trucks, police cars, and ambulances will add to the commotion. There will be strolling bands of musicians.

Every retail store will suspend sale of its regular merchandise during the 15-minute period, and will sell only bonds and stamps. Business men will wear special patriotic hats, and they will parade in front of their places of business beating tin pans and otherwise drumming up trade in bonds and stamps.

The committee urged children of the city to trim their bicycles and ride them in the downtown area (traffic will be rerouted) and asked the youngsters as well as grown-ups to contribute to the Mardi Gras atmosphere by wearing funny costumes.

Forty Mansfield girls and young women will be on duty in stores of the city selling bonds and stamps, under auspices of the county war bond organizattion. Divided into four teams, these girls are:

Team 1—Helen Meihack, captain, Marian Draffan, Jean Herring, Nancy Grimm, Sally Dirlam, Ann Loughridge, Ann Lersch, Charlotte Purdy, Hope Bromfield, and Mary Werner;

Team 2—Janet Goldsmith, captain, Shirley Anson, Virginia Shambaugh, Madonna Hink, Bertie Kevey, Katherine Bushnell, Mary Jane Bender, Virginia Marion, Janice Snyder, and Mary Alice Spring;

conserve time and effort for both contributors and the solicitors who last year were called upon to participate in at least a dozen war relief and Community Fund drives, the War Chest will reduce solicitation to a minimum.

All outside war relief agencies hereafter must work through the War Chest organization and a special admission and distribution committee, to be appointed later, will determine whether or not they are eligible for inclusion in the War Chest.

Two committees were appointed by the new War Chest president last night, one to draft a plan of operation and another to study the advisability of incorporation.

Msgr. R. C. Goebel was appointed chairman of the operations committee. Other members of this group are Atty. J. H. Gongwer and Clarence Fike. The committee on incorporation is headed by John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, as chairman. George L. Draffan and Robert C. Remy are other members.

The executive group voted against importing professional assistance in waging the first campaign.

Remy, president of the Community Fund, presided at the open session called by the Fund executive board last night. He explained the economy of organizing a War Chest and said that while the campaign expenses would be deducted from the general receipts of the administration expenses of the War Chest after the campaign would be borne by the Community Fund.

Jane Williams, Fund executive secretary, explained the value of organizing a War Chest and enumerated the individual drives that raised approximately one-quarter of a million dollars in Mansfield last year.

In reference to the hundreds of war relief agencies that will call for funds throughout the nation during the coming year, Mrs. Williams said: "We must have the support of every citizen in not permitting other independent war relief drives to operate in the city once local war chest affiliates are established."

Which of the national war relief appeals will be included in the War Chest drive will be decided by the admissions committee.

The executive committee elected by the organization upon report of the nominating committee headed by W. C. Mansfield of the Community Fund executive board was composed of 17 members. Three other representatives of public utilities and the Retail Merchants' association were also elected upon the nomination from the floor by Jay Herbert.

Members of the committee are Brunner, George W. Stevens, Remy, George L. Draffan, Shultz, Lewis Hartman, Routzon, Graham, Msgr. Goebel, J. H. Ashbaugh, John W. Gross, Clarence Fike, Jake Cousins, Rev. A. L. Linder, James M. Hill, Mrs. Tom Ford, Mrs. Williams, John Cook, V. H. Lodde, and W. C. Mead.

ternoon in common pleas court by Attorneys McAfee, Grossman, Hanning, and Newcomer of Cleveland and Attorney C. H. Henkel of Mansfield.

The Standard Oil company last March obtained an injunction against another city ordinance which would have limited stations to operation from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. daily and 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. Sundays. No attempt was made by the city to enforce that ordinance and it was repealed by council June 2 when the present ordinance was passed.

Representing the city at today's hearing was City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner who said he was not prepared to argue the case on its merits and would not object to a temporary injunction.

Named defendants in the suit were the city as a municipal corporation, Mayor William J. Locke, Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff, City Solicitor Wagner, and Police Chief T. M. Bell.

worn tires would be retreaded and disposed of in the same manner.

It was pointed out that the WPB has made available enough reclaimed rubber to retread 1,000,000 tires a month, but this figure has not been met because of a diminishing supply of suitable tire carcasses.

Many motorists, it was said, have shown a reluctance to pay the price for retreading and have continued to use their old tires to the point that they are worn too thin to be of any value in retreading.

Officials hope that, with the stockpile of new tires on hand, a vigorous retreading program and possible development of a substitute tire, it will be possible to maintain essential vehicles in operation.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN GUILD HAS MEETING

Mrs. Karl Wolford Is Hostess at Home Monday Evening; Report of Convention Given, Picnic Planned.

WHEN the United Presbyterian Guild met Monday evening, Mrs. Karl Wolford, 127 Stewart avenue, was hostess and Miss Lucille Day was associate hostess. "Lights In An Upper Room" was the topic of the devotions given by Miss Martha Gump. For the program a report was given on the national convention of the Woman's General Missionary society, which was held recently at Akron.

The report was given by Mrs. Lynn Robenstine, official delegate to the convention, Miss Jeanette Martin and Mrs. Frank Leavitt. Mrs. Russell Bridgeland of Akron was a guest. The short business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Hugh Rust. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Next meeting will be a picnic at South park on July 27. Members in charge will be Miss Day, Mrs. Merle Roberts and Mrs. Fred Proctor.

Surprise Shower Given In Honor Of Bride-Elect

Miss Thelma Dickson, bride-elect of Joseph Miller, was honored with a surprise bathroom shower given last evening by Miss Elaine Miller at her home, 114 Massa avenue. Twenty guests spent the evening socially. Recipients of prizes in contests were the Misses Betty Gongwer, Eileen Pierce, Donna Mae Bonecutter, Marjorie Shoup, Margaret Mertler, Eileen Dillon, Mary Lou Haldeman, and Helen Murphy, Mrs. Nellie Shrader and Mrs. Edith Hamaker.

Color scheme of pink and white was used on the luncheon table. Verses inside balloons contained clues which led Miss Dickson to the places where her gifts had been hidden. Miss Dickson and Mr. Miller will be married in St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. on Saturday, July 25.

SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY.

A group of friends surprised Mrs. Everett Bish with a birthday party Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haycook. Cards furnished the diversion of the evening. Refreshments were served at a long table centered with a birthday cake. The honoree was recipient of many nice gifts.

HOROSCOPE

FOR WEDNESDAY, July 1

THE PLANETARY configurations influencing the affairs of this day may give particular impetus to all mental, intellectual, artistic and professional pursuits or avocations. Travel, change, agencies, correspondence, contracts and legal agreements may prove lucrative and all public contacts and works should flourish, especially in the way of social service or humanitarian effort. There may be some disruptive or peculiar romantic experiences. Extravagance may menace.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a productive and active year in all pertaining to travel, writings, agencies, communications, advertising, promotions, or legal enterprises, all of which are under exciting stimuli. Public affiliations and interests of a social or welfare nature also may give personal gratification, but some peculiar, separative or surprising element seems to disturb romantic alliances. Shun extravagance and excesses.

A child born on this day should have excellent ability and resourcefulness in all intellectual and professional pursuits, with much public recognition. It will be witty, resourceful and public spirited.

Asks Advice On Visiting His Family

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

My mail bag brought me a letter from a girl who is going to visit her fiance's family. Her fiance has just left for a naval station where he is taking training for service at sea.

He wants her to pay a visit to his mother, whom she has just met, and my correspondent has written to ask me some questions about making a good impression. She says if her married life doesn't start off with good feelings all around, it won't be her fault.

She believes in first impressions; perhaps too much so, since we've all had the experience of having to go into reverse about our first enthusiasms or prejudices. But a first imprint of personality—especially in the case of a new daughter-in-law—is an important matter.

First thing for her to do is take stock of what she has in common with her future family. Do they think alike about the real things of life—home, children, marriage, religion? If she doesn't agree with them about these things, it would be fatal to pretend she does, for later it will be held against her.

Of course, it's not necessary, these days, to hold the same convictions as your in-laws, or future in-laws.

A guest always makes an agreeable impression, whether she has matrimonial designs on the family or not, if she concerns herself with those things which interest the others. Without perjuring herself she might admire their cherished possessions — books, pictures, handiwork about the house, a view from some particular window, etc.

If there are any younger people in the family — boys or girls — they're the ones most likely to be critics, and by the same token, may be her staunchest admirers.

So many girls have missed happiness before marriage, as well as afterwards, by utterly neglecting the parents of the young man they intend to marry. Of course, it isn't necessary to marry the entire family, but why not become pleasantly acquainted with them?

The older people — the mother and father — have gone through the mill. At least they have survived life's handicaps up to the present time. They know more about the game of life—the things that count—than the most self-confident girl or boy.

Make them your friends instead of your critics.

Healthful Foods Made From Fish

By BETSY NEWMAN

HOW MANY fish meals a year does the average family eat, do you suppose? Fifty-seven, according to a consumer research conducted by the United States Fish and Wildlife service of the department of agriculture. Fifty-one of them are eaten at home; six at public eating houses. Many authorities rate fish and shellfood as among the most healthful of foods. They are rich in vitamin content and have many minerals that help keep the body in good trim.

Today's Menu

Pan Fried Porgies or Other Fresh Fish
Parsley Potatoes Beet Greens
Green Onions Cherry Pudding
Coffee

Pan Fried Porgies

3 lbs. porgies
1 c. yellow cornmeal and flour (equal parts)
1½ tbsps. salt
4 tbsps. cooking fat or oil

Heat fat over low fire in heavy cast-metal pan, if available. Split fish ⅝ inch thick and cut in service portions. Sift together cornmeal, flour and salt. Dip fish in water and cover well with dry ingredients. As soon as the fat commences to smoke put fish in pan and cook 5 minutes. Cover pan and remove from fire to allow fish to cook in its own steam for about 2 minutes. Remove cover, turn fish, return pan to flame, and cook 3 minutes longer.

Cherry Pudding

1 egg
½ c. sweet milk
2 tsps. baking powder
½ c. honey
2 cps. flour
1 c. stoned cherries, drained

Beat egg, add honey and milk. Sift flour with baking powder. Add milk, egg and honey mixture gradually to dry ingredients. Add cherries, stir well and steam 2 hours. Serve with cream or any preferred sauce.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

MARY had not remembered my father's injunction, I could see by the startled and disappointed look in her eyes. I knew she was anxious to get back to Noel, but we both realized that my father's request was tantamount to a command.

"I honestly had forgotten," she said. "How soon do you think he will be here, and have you any idea what he wants?"

"He hasn't told me," I said "but I imagine he wants to give you fresh instructions concerning Stephen—some for yourself and some that you can relay to Olina. And I'll find out immediately how soon he will be here."

I picked up the telephone and asked for my father's apartment, wondering whether the telephone operator was one of the espionage ring under the direction of the Lansfield's manager, Mr. Milner.

Calls Spencer.

One comforting reflection accompanied my speculation. It would not be long before Mr. Milner ceased being manager of the Lansfield; manager, indeed, of anything save what he could manage from a prison cell.

"Father?" I inquired, and his answering "Yes" was promptly followed by the words "I have been expecting your call." That formula, which I know well, means: be guarded in what you say."

"Are you coming over to say good-night to me?" I asked in saccharine tones.

"I'll be right over," he said. Then I turned to Mary.

"I'll try to induce him to make this interview as short as possible," I said, so I'll see him first alone. Remember that you're terribly fatigued."

"Really I'm about all in," she said.

Will Intercede.

"I know you are," I agreed, "and I'm going to do the best I can for you. Now I'll shut you in the bedroom while I try to find out what he wants and to win a fairly swift dismissal for you."

"Good hunting!" she said, as she turned toward the bedroom door, "also happy landings! I'll probably be sound asleep on your bed by the time you have the chief eating out of your hand."

She turned at the threshold to give me a parting airy wave of her hand. Then I ranged up and down my living room, too restless to sit still. I knew also that it would be only a minute or two before my father came.

When he came in I noted with relief an indefinable air of hurry about him. So I knew I would not have to intercede for Mary: his interview with her would be very brief.

"Is Mary not here?" he asked impatiently before I had a chance to explain.

"She is in the bedroom," I told him.

"Then will you please change places with her?" he said. "It will be only for a short interval. Then I will call you and she can go on over to her own apartment, for I have some things to explain to you."

In my bedroom I found Mary pacing the floor, even as I had done.

"I suppose he wants me?" she said.

"Yes: but I have good news for you. He is in a tremendous hurry, and I imagine your interview with him will be very brief."

"That's the best news I've had in a month," Mary said as she turned toward the door, "but I'd give a month's pay to know what he wants of me."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE A MISER

Some players are squanderers, playing their winning cards at the earliest opportunity and thereby simplifying the problems of the enemy. Some go to the other extreme, and are regular misers when it comes to holding on to their high cards and trumps. As between the two, the first is probably the better fault to have. Neither, however, is as effective as being balanced about the matter, being neither in haste to use your good cards nor unduly stingy about spending them.

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl

Possibly East should have bid 2-Hearts after that double, to give his partner a choice, since his own hand was so strong, but he passed in preference to raising the height of the contract. South, of course, did right in passing, so he could play for penalties against the vulnerable opponents, in view of his trump holding. The same bidding as that chronicled above was used at two different tables of a duplicate game. In other cases, East redoubled, or bid hearts or No Trumps on the second turn.

Notice what happened in the play, however, at one table. The club 10 went to the A, and North returned the spade 8 to prevent diamond ruffing. East played low and South for some reason decided to do likewise, letting the 10 win in dummy. The diamond 9 was sent through to the 10, and South returned the club 2. North putting on the Q for the K to win. The diamond A and a ruff of the diamond J followed, the club J won, next the heart K and A, North returning his third heart, which South ruffed. Having only his top three trumps left, South had to lead into East's A-K-J, so that the declarer made an extra trick.

At the other table, after North won the opening club with the A, he led the heart 6 to the K, took the return with the A, let a third heart for South to trump, and then played low when South returned the club 2 to the K. The diamond A, the 4 to the K, spade 8 to the A, diamond J ruffed and the heart J ruffed by the 7 made the sixth trick for the defense. East ruffed the club return and took the spade K, but had to give the setting trick then to the spade Q.

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE BY SON

M. M. Bauer, 46, Took Own Life By Hanging, Coroner Says in Verdict.

The body of Melvin M. Bauer, 46, Mansfield general contractor, was found hanging from a rafter in a garage at the rear of his home, 31 West Prospect street, today at 10 a. m. by his son, Melvin, jr., and a playmate.

Dr. L. B. McCullough, Richland county coroner, said that Bauer had been dead since about 2:30 a. m. and added that Bauer had been in poor health for several years. He returned a verdict of suicide by hanging.

Mansfield police said that Bauer's son and Jimmy Gibson, 11, of 37 West Prospect street, found the body while playing near the garage this morning.

Bauer was born in Knox county Feb. 22, 1896 but lived in Mansfield for the past 22 years. He was a member of Bauer Bros. company, a contracting firm. He served overseas in the World war and was a member of McVey post, American Legion, the Moose and the Woodmen of America.

Survivors are his widow, Cordella Bauer; his son, Melvin, jr.; two daughters, Pauline and Marcia Ann; his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bauer, all of Mansfield; three brothers, Ora and Ivan of Mansfield, and Lester Bauer of Lucas; and a half-brother, Harry Weiland, Mansfield.

The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral home. Funeral services have not yet been completed.

Enemy Plot.

An ordinary guy turns hero when the fate of his country is at stake in "Dangerously They Live," opening Wednesday at the Madison. John Garfield and Nancy Coleman have the leading roles as a young doctor and the secretary at the British Export Bureau. Raymond Massey, Lee Patrick and Moroni Olsen are in the cast. "Who Is Hope Schuyler?" a murder-mystery with Mary Howard and Sheila Ryan is the second attraction.

Western Thriller.

Gene Autry rides again in "Stardust on the Sage," the Ritz attraction. He discovers his friends are being fleeced by unscrupulous mining agents when they should be putting their money into their ranches. Smiley Burnette, Louise Currie and Monte Montague are among the players. Bela Luguosi in "The Corpse Vanishes," with Luana Walters, shares the bill.

Dietrich Film.

"The Lady Is Willing," Marlene Dietrich's picture at the Park, shows what happens when a screwball actress decides to pick up a baby in the street and take it home without mentioning the incident to the authorities. Fred MacMurray plays opposite the star as a young medico who is persuaded to aid in the scheme. Ralph Byrd and Stubby Kruger appear in "Duke of the Navy," the second attraction.

pincers are expected to make contact soon, the agency said in its report datelined on the Kiangsi front.

The Japanese force moving westward set out this morning from a point west of Shangjao, Domei said, while the one moving eastward started yesterday with capture of Iyang, 20 miles east of Kweiki (where the Chinese had held the Japanese for no gain since June 16).

This indicated that the two Japanese forces were only about 30 miles apart.

80 GIRL SCOUTS OPEN CAMP AT PARK IN SHELBY

Sessions to Continue Through Friday of Next Week; Outdoor Activities Planned.

SHELBY — Some 80 girls reported today at the Little house in Seltzer park for the opening of the annual Girl Scout day camp.

The camp is under the general supervision of Miss Ellen Fireoved of near Shelby. Other Girl Scout leaders are assisting her.

The camp will continue this week and Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. The girls receive training in outdoor activities.

The annual Shelby Firemen's carnival opened Monday night at the old ball diamond on Mack avenue.

The event will continue through the Fourth of July when an appropriate celebration has been planned for that day.

Part of the proceeds from the carnival will be used to purchase needed equipment for the fire station.

REQUEST BIG U. S. SUBSIDIES

Officials Offer Plan To Halt Threatened Break In Price Ceilings.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A plan for vast federal business subsidies to block a threatened break-through in price ceilings has been recommended to congressional leaders by high-ranking government officials.

Informed sources said today that Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard had suggested informally a scheme built around government purchase of farm products and other raw materials which would be resold—at a loss—to businesses "squeezed" between frozen wholesale and retail prices.

Thus, it was said, a retailer who could not raise his prices to compensate for higher wholesale charges could continue in business without breaking through price ceilings.

One adviser to President Roosevelt said "one guess" was that such a program would cost the government between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000.

This development came as both the senate and house faced badly jammed calendars on the last day of the fiscal year, with legislative action incomplete on numerous appropriation bills which must be completed by midnight if affected departments are to have funds to operate with tomorrow.

Night sessions were in prospect for both chambers.

LONG ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

SHELBY—Frank G. Nazor, 61, lifelong resident of this area, died Monday at the home in Taylortown, southeast of the city, after an illness of the past nine years.

Survivors include the wife, Jeanette; one daughter, Mrs. Ruth Stimmell of Mansfield; one son, Carl Eugene at home; one sister, Mrs. Blanche Hatfield of Loudonville; one half-brother, Howard of Jackson, Mich.; one half-sister, Mrs. Helen Myers of Mansfield; also three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m., Thursday from the Ontario Community church with Rev. W. L. Peters, pastor of the First Baptist church of Shelby, officiating. Burial will be made in Oakland cemetery.

COMMISSIONED

BUCYRUS—Clement McGruder son of Mrs. Mabel McGruder, 208 Iron street, and graduate of Bucyrus High school of the class of 1929, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. army. McGruder was a member of the old Ohio National Guard and was graduated from officers training school at Fort Knox, Ky. where he has been a member of the Fort Knox band.

BUCYRUS PLANS FOR PROGRAM

Varied Entertainment To Be Presented at Park During Independence Day.

BUCYRUS — Concerts, contests and a ball game along with the park amusement facilities will provide entertainment for the thousands who are expected to spend Independence day at Aumiller park. The entertainment program will be climaxed by a fireworks display sponsored by the Bucyrus "B" club.

New this year in the fireworks display will be the emblems of local fraternal organizations.

A short concert by the Bucyrus Male chorus is scheduled for 8:30.

The new municipal swimming pool, which is attracting hundreds to the park daily, is expected to be one of the main attractions and arrangements are being made by Manager Randall Motts for a record breaking attendance in the picnic grounds.

Seccaium park, other local amusement center, is expected to attract its usual large dance crowds and picnickers. Fireworks in the evening is also being offered as a special attraction.

WED AT CHURCH

Miss Edna Kerr, Bucyrus, and Clifford Gilbert, Married.

BUCYRUS — Rev. H. H. Glick performed the single ring ceremony Saturday morning which united in marriage Miss Edna Kerr, daughter of Mrs. Glenn Kerr, East Rensselaer street, and Charles Gilbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gilbert, Lakewood, Ohio.

The ceremony was performed at the altar of the church and was witnessed by the immediate families and Mrs. Hazel Pyle of Kennett Square, Pa., close friend of the bride.

The new Mrs. Gilbert is a graduate of the Philadelphia School of Occupational Therapy and for the last four years has been employed in the Cleveland State hospital.

The couple will live in Lakewood where Mr. Gilbert is employed for the Cleveland Twist Drill Manufacturing company.

News In Crawford County Courts

BUCYRUS — One marriage license was issued and one application filed in probate court over the week-end.

A license was issued to Richard Clair Pfouts, 21, Bucyrus, laborer, son of Pursel and Alice Pfouts and Sara Irene Hines, 18, Nevada road, daughter of Orzo and Euphemia Hines.

Application was made by Eugene Harley Liming, 20, Bucyrus, laborer, son of Harley and Marie Liming and Theresa Elizabeth Frisch, 17, Bucyrus, daughter of Jerome and Mary Frisch.

OPEN NEW CAMP REGISTRATIONS

Y. M. C. A. Preparing For Third Contingent At Nelson Dodd.

Registrations for the third camp period at Y. M. C. A. Camp Nelson Dodd will open tomorrow, it was announced today by Secretary Ralph B. Chapman.

A quota of 15 boys has been allotted to the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. for the period extending from July 26 to Aug. 2.

In view of the fact that the quota of 35 boys for the second period early next month has been filled up for some time, Chapman urged immediate registration for boys who wish to attend the third period camp.

PLAYERS PLAN DANCE

GALION—Plans for a dance to be held in July were discussed when the Galion Community players met Monday evening. Final arrangements will be announced following a special meeting to be held next Monday night.

The speaker for the evening, Jack Quatman, of Dayton, was a former member of the Black Hawk dramatic league of Dayton. He addressed the club on the ways and means of increasing club interest and activity.

Quatman is at present employed at the North Electric manufacturing company where he is studying communications preparatory for entrance into the army.

DIES AT AGE 91

Former Galion Resident Succumbs Near Ontario.

GALION—A former Galion resident, Mrs. Carrie Scheffler, 91, died at her home Monday night one mile southeast of Ontario. She had been ill three weeks. She was the daughter of Jacob and Sarah Fickesen and was born in Connecticut, N. Y.

Surviving are two sons, A. L. Scheffler, at home, and H. L. Scheffler of Galion; four grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Two brothers, Jacob Fickesen, and Daniel Fickesen of Marietta; and two sisters, Mrs. Eva Noha and Mrs. Anna Biehl of Marietta also survive. One son, one daughter, four brothers and four sisters preceded her in death.

For the past three and one half years Mrs. Scheffler has lived in Ontario, where she had moved when she left Galion. She was a member of the First Reformed church. Funeral services in charge of the Snyder funeral home are incomplete.

PASSES EXAMS

ASHLAND — William Dupler, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dupler of this city, has passed entrance examinations at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and will spend the next three years in training there.

Dupler graduated from Ashland high school in 1940 and for the past two years attended Ashland college.

He received his appointment to Annapolis from Congressman Harry McGregor.

CLASS ELECTS

ASHLAND—The Ashland high school class of 1939 has elected the following officers for 1943: Miss Florensce Loris, president; Miss Estelle Easterday, secretary; and Miss Donna Rupert, treasurer. The class had their reunion at Brookside Park this year with a picnic supper served there followed by an evening of dancing at Chippewa Lake.

GRANTED DIVORCE

ASHLAND — A divorce has been granted in Ashland common pleas court to Annabelle Brothers in her suit against William Brothers on grounds of gross neglect.

GALION GIRL BECOMES BRIDE OF U. S. SIGNAL CORPS OFFICER

GALION—At a 4 o'clock wedding Tuesday afternoon Miriam Rachel Schreck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schreck, of Bucyrus road, became the bride of William Muntean, son of Mrs. Grace Muntean, of East Palestine. The vows were exchanged in the bride's home, with Rev. Harry R. Merle, pastor of the First Lutheran church reading the single ring ceremony.

Dressed in a brown and beige ensemble accentuated with a shoulder corsage, the bride was attended by Kathryn Brewer. The groom's brother, Edward Muntean, was best man. Only the immediate families were present for the ceremony and for the reception which followed at the home of Mrs. Fred Essex.

A three-course wedding dinner was served.

The bride is a graduate of Galion high school and has completed three years of study at Ohio State university where she was majoring in dietetics. Mr. Muntean was graduated from East Palestine high school and received his degree in electrical engineering at Ohio State university this spring. He is now stationed in the signal corps of the United States army at Camp Murphy, Florida, where he is a second lieutenant.

The couple will leave in a few days for Florida where Mr. Muntean will report for duty.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Got a postcard over the week-end from Al Vogel, manager of the Colony bowling alleys, vacationing at the moment at Walker, Minn. Al says that old fish story about the big one that got away isn't true, because he caught him. But he doesn't say how big.

So the prize fish story of the day goes to Kegler-Golfer-Angler Earl Robinson.

Robby says he went fishing in one of our nearby conservancy lakes not long ago, and a fellow-angler says to him:

"They stocked this place right here with a lot of silver cats, but no one ever caught one of the things."

"Are you sure they put them in here?" asked Robby.

"Sure, I'm sure," retorted the angler.

"Then I'll catch one for you," says Robby.

The line is taut, the rod is bending,
Prepare, my friends, for the happy ending.

"So I put two worms on a No. 6 hook, leaving just the point sticking out," continues Robby, "and I tossed in the line, and laid my pole down on the bank and walked over to another guy to bum a light for my cigaret.

"And when I came back, the bobber had gone down, and I pulled out a 15-inch silver cat.

"I met that same fisherman a week later, and he told me: 'That is still the only silver cat ever pulled out of that hole'."

Are there some who still think softball is a sissy game? Not the way the gals play it, it ain't!

One game in Ashland last Friday night put two girls in the hospital, and probably shelved another for the rest of the season. All of the victims were members of the Columbus Wilks Meats who have played here on numerous occasions.

Hazel Franklin, catcher, and Davena Thomas, third sacker, collided going after a foul ball, and both wound up in Ashland Samaritan hospital, Hazel with a brain concussion, and Davena with a broken nose.

Mary Bessemer of the Mansfield Provident Loans, playing for Ashland, slid into second and cut down the Columbus second sacker, probably for the season. The gal already had a bum knee, and Mary's slide banged it up that much more.

So crippled were the Wilks they had to borrow three Mansfield Providents for a game Saturday night at Delaware, which they won over a Dayton team 16-2.

Mary Bessemer did the catching, Jean Herrick was on second and Ev Jocha in left field for the Wilks.

Bessemer's softball schedule was: Thursday night, practice, Friday, catching for Ashland, Saturday, catching for Wilks, Sunday, catching for the Providents at Willoughby, and tonight she catches for the Providents again at Ashland. She had Monday night off.

She might as well turn pro. She couldn't be any busier.

Hard Luck Hurler to Face Tribe

Indians Beat White Sox In First Game.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Having fattened up their batting averages on three Chicago pitchers in the opening game of the Windy City series, the Cleveland Indians drew hard-luck Ed Smith for an opponent under the lights tonight.

The Redskins won yesterday's bang-fest 11 to 5. The victory also advanced the Tribe a half game on their first division rivals, who were idle.

Manager Lou Boudreau picked Jim Bagby to pitch for Cleveland on the theory that the big right-hander has been ineffective recently because of lack of work.

Roy Weatherly, who slammed a triple and two singles yesterday, was injured in a collision at the plate with Catcher Tom Turner in the eighth. Boudreau said X-rays indicated Stormy would be out with a wrenched left knee for several days. Buster Mills was scheduled to start tonight anyway because Smith is a left-hander, Weatherly's weakness.

Chicago started the scoring by jumping on Al Milnar for two runs in the first inning and one tally in each of the next three frames, but then the veteran hurler steadied and allowed no hits in the last four innings.

Cleveland tallied two in the third, one in the fourth, and tied it up at 5-all in the fifth. They broke the tie with one run in the seventh, but the eighth netted four runs on triples by Milnar and Weatherly, two singles, two walks and a sacrifice. The final marker was in the ninth on a double, a sacrifice and an infield out.

Gabby's Guys Boot 7 Errors

Hartnett Dusts Off Choice Vocabulary.

(By Associated Press)

Manager Gabby Hartnett got out his best scolding words today to avoid another comedy of errors his Indianapolis boys staged last night.

After reaching the .500 mark in the American Association standings for the first time since early season, the tribe committeed seven errors as Milwaukee paraded to a 12-5 victory.

Columbus ran up its 11th victory in 14 current home games by licking St. Paul, 7 to 2. The turning point came in the sixth when Pinch-Hitter Augie Bergamo doubled with the bases filled to score three runners. The Saint's two runs in the first frame were unearned.

League-leading Kansas City was edged out by Louisville, 4-3, in an 11-inning game.

STARTED IN FRONT AND NEVER HEADED

FORT COLLINS, Colo. —(AP)— One way of winning a batting championship is to get in front at the start and stay there.

That's what Harvey Olson of Colorado State did in capturing the hitting title in the Mountain Intercollegiate Baseball league. He smasked 25 hits in 52 times at bat in 12 games for a husky .481 average.

Olson grabbed the lead in the first week of play in early April and was never headed.

However, he wasn't around to claim the title when he finally had won it. A second lieutenant in the R. O. T. C., he was called into army service as soon as Colorado State wound up its schedule before the league season was completed.

HAS OWN WAY

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(AP)— The Michigan State varsity fencing team knows now that Coach Charles Schmitter can practice what he preaches. Schmitter recently challenged the entire varsity squad of nine, took them one at a time and scored an 18-9 victory. The contest lasted more than two hours and Schmitter was still going strong at the finish even though he has been out of active competition for years.

M'CARTHY IMPROVES, RETURNS TO YANKEES

CHICAGO — (INS) — Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees, much improved from an attack of gall bladder trouble, returned to the east today.

He said before his departure that he expected to take over the reins at the all-star baseball game next Monday at the latest, although he would like to get back with the Yankees this week-end. He had been confined to his hotel during the recent White Sox-Yankee series here.

Rookie Upkeep Costs Money

Fernandez Comes With Highest Price Tag.

(Wide World Features)

DETROIT—Major league baseball clubs are cagy about revealing amounts paid for rookies but from available information it appears that the Braves' Nanny Fernandez and the Tigers' Billy Hitchcock came with the highest price tags.

Boston got Fernandez, a crack third baseman, from San Francisco for $50,000, while Detroit gave up $40,000 and two players to Kansas City for Shortstop Hitchcock.

The New York Giants coughed up in the neighborhood of $30,000 for Infielder Connie Ryan and about the same for Outfielder Willard Marshall. Pitcher Hal White cost Detroit $25,000 and one player while Pittsburgh paid around $25,000 for Outfielder Jack Barrett.

Establishing the cost of rookies is a difficult proposition. Baseball men say the purchase price represents only a small part of the club's investment in a young player. In other words, it's not the down payment, it's the upkeep. Detroit, for instance, figures that those who came up through the farm organization normally with three years of seasoning represents an investment of $20,000 each.

The comparatively few rookies who make good are expected to cover the money spent on those who don't and the expenses of maintaining minor league farm clubs, which frequently operate at a loss.

Say, for example, Cleveland gives financial support of $10,000 a year to a minor league farm. It sends five youngsters there for seasoning, youngsters who have cost the major outfit varying amounts at the outset.

Of these only one develops into a major leaguer. Perhaps his cost wasn't so large but since he is the only return Cleveland got out of its investment, he represents the cost of all the other rookies plus the financial aid to the minor league club. On that basis some of the rookies come pretty high.

Some of the farm-bred rookies are Hank Borowy and Johnny Lindell of the Yankees, Johnny Pesky, Yank Terry, Cecil Hughson, Wilburn Butland, Ulysses Lupien and Paul Campbell of the Red Sox, Jack Wallaesa and Elmer Valo of the A's, Charles Embree, Steve Gromek and Jim Hegan of the Indians, Willard Donovan and Jim Wallace of the Braves, Early Wynn of the Senators and practically all of the St. Louis Cardinal youngsters.

Detroit originally paid $500 for Bob Patrick, $1,500 each for Murray Franklin and Ed Parsons, and $2,500 for Virgil Trucks and Harold Manders. The St. Louis Browns gave $700 for Frank Biscan, $1,000 for Loy Hanning, $500 for Vernon Stephens, $500 for Tony Criscola and $2,000 for Glenn McQuillen.

The Phils paid $7,500 each for Earl Naylor, Al Glossup and Ron Northey. Washington paid that amount for Bob Repass and so did the Athletics for Lou Blair. The Indians gave a good chunk of dough for Les Fleming and Oris Hockett. The Dodgers originally gave $6,500 for Ed Head.

Springfield Edges Charleston Club

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)— Springfield's Mid-Atlantic league Cardinals "Do'd It."

They won a 2 to 1 victory over Charleston's Senators in the 10th inning last night, snapping the league leaders' winning streak at nine games.

Although outhit 6 to 5, the Cardinals manufactured a run out of a Senator error, a bunt and a sacrifice fly for their margin of victory after tying Charleston's first-inning run in the third.

Dayton blanked second place Erie 2-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Lefty Arnold Reickert at Erie.

Canton edged last place Zanesville 5-4 at Canton.

Games tonight: Zanesville at Canton, Springfield at Charleston and Dayton at Erie.

NEWARK—Norman Rubio, 146½, Albany, N. Y., outpointed Fritzie Zivic, 149¼, Pittsburgh (10).

PITTSBURGH—Ezzard Charles, 160, Cincinnati, outpointed Charles Hurley, 151, Minneapolis (10).

HENS BEAT TIGERS

TOLEDO—(AP)—Toledo's American association baseball club beat the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, in an exhibition game last night. A two-run single by Rookie Ray Parrots in the eighth decided the contest.

She Isn't Afraid Of Guns Any More

Because she was "afraid of guns," Mrs. Potter Palmer III, of Chicago, decided to master her fear by skeet shooting. Result, she's now one of the best woman shots. Recently she won the Great Eastern Women's Championship by breaking 25 straight in a three-way shoot-off. Next, she sets her sights for the Nationals at Syracuse, early in August. Mrs. Palmer is a niece of Massachusetts' Governor Leverett Saltonstall.

Midget Race On July 4th

Ashland Track Gets Second Holiday Event.

ASHLAND — Ashland county fairgrounds half-mile race track will be the scene of a second holiday auto racing program Saturday afternoon when midget auto racers compete in a seven event card.

First to enter the Independence Day card of seven races was Roy Sherman of Los Angeles, winner of the Memorial Day main event here. Close behind his entry came that of Wally Stokes of Honolulu who is just getting back into action after being hospitalized fo rsix weeks with a broken knee and jaw sufered in a five car stackup at Akron's Rubber Bowl Stadium. One of the best known of the nation's dirt track drivers, a star with both big cars and midgets, Stokes entered a Hal Special for the July 4th competitions.

Other early entrants were former world record holder and ex-Michigan state champion with both big cars and midgets, Johnny Wohlfeil of Detroit, Clarence La Rue of Akron, Bob Heinze of Brunswick and Mike Little, the Johnstown, Pa., coal-miner driver.

Gates of the Ashland Fairgrounds track wil be opened Saturday at noon when the drivers begin warming up. Time trials for starting positions will begin at 12:30 and the first race of the seven event holiday bill will start promptly at 2:45 p. m. Promoters of the program, who staged the Decoration Day events here, have again guaranteed the dustless track which met with approval of all the fans.

Tigers Would Shorten Sked

Elimination of Spring Training Suggested.

DETROIT —(AP)— The Detroit Tigers came to bat today with proposals that the baseball season of 1943 be reduced by two months and the southern spring training program be abandoned.

Offering each as a war measure, general manager Jack Zeller of the Tigers said he would present his ideas to the annual midsummer meeting of the American league club owners in New York, July 6.

One dovetails into the other, Zeller said, with the spring training to be carried on in the park at home during the period which now constitutes the first month of the playing schedule. Under Zeller's plan, the season also would finish a month earlier.

Zeller said he proposed elimination of the southern training out of a fear that there might be a housing shortage in the south as far as Major leaguers were concerned next year in view of expanding military facilities. Furthermore, he said, there should be no intrusion on the army.

The proposal to eliminate southern training is a sock at a hoary baseball tradition and practice, which Zeller admits. He insisted, however, that players could get into condition at home just as well.

Zeller conceded that he expected no hasty approval of his suggestions.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)— Lieut. Col. Biff Jones, like Major Wallace Wade, has asked to have his name scratched from the list of possible coaches for those all-Army football teams. . . . Lieut. Col. Draw 30,000 For Army-Navy Game

CINCINNATI—(AP)— Cincinnati aims to show that this is a baseball town and an army and navy town to boot.

Tonight the ball park is going to be packed with 30,000 people, no deadheads.

The Army-Navy relief fund gets all the dough and the 30,000 get:

A—A mixed team of Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds playing Mickey Cochrane's timber-swinging nine from the Great Lakes naval training base.

B—A combat show put on by troops in full battle regalia from Fort Knox, Ky.

C—The regularly scheduled game between the Reds and the Cubs, with Ray Starr and Bill Lee pitching.

SOUTHPAW'S LEAN YEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—With Lefty Grove gone and Vernon Gomez past his prime, the American league is in a sorry way for southpaw pitchers. At the one-third mark in the penant chase, only Chubby Dean and Al Hollingsworth had winning records of any account, and Marius Russo, left-handed hope of the Yankees, had turned in only two victories.

Fleming Hits Hot Streak

Has .667 Average For One Week's Slugging.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Les Fleming, the pudgy young man from Nashville who inherited the Cleveland first base job, is the hottest thing in major league baseball right now.

Fleming climbed 16 points last week to become the greatest threat to the continued reign of Joe Gordon, New York Yankees, as the leading batter in the American league.

While Gordon slipped from .367 to .363, Fleming rapped 12 hits in 18 official trips to the plate for an astounding average of .667 for the week. That barrage lifted him from fourth in the league race to second with a .346 figure.

The Brooklyn pair of Pete Reiser center fielder, and Joe Medwick, left fielder, continued to dominate the National league although both fell off their previous pace.

Reiser, boasting an average of .356 a week ago, remains on top with .347 while Medwick holds second with .335.

Ernie Lombardi, Boston catcher, and Sian Musial, rookie outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, both showed big gains for the week, the former climbing to .325 and the latter to .320.

Whispering Leo Squirms

Sits in Stands While Dodgers Defeat Phils.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Lee Durocher, chief of the Babbling Brooks, earned the nickname of the All-American out during his sojourn as a player in the Amercian league but he is just plain "out" as boss of the Dodgers until Thursday.

The Brooklyn mouthpiece has been fined $50 and suspended for three days by President Ford Frick of the National league for his run-in with the umpires Sunday.

But he was within whispering distance at Philadelphia last night as the Brooklyns pasted another half game to their National league lead in one of the day's two major league games.

Seated only 10 feet from the Dodger bench in a private box, he squirmed loudly until his charges came through with a sixrun outburst in the ninth inning to quell the Philadelphia Phils 10 to 3.

In that frame the Dodgers batted all the way around to make sure that Ed Head, their rookie hurler, was successful in his fifth attempt to win his sixth game of the season.

The triumph lifted the Dodgers nine and a half games ahead of the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

Action was every bit as concentrated in the American league where the Cleveland Indians retained third place by shellacking the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 5.

Rubio Turns In Fistic Upset

NEWARK, N. J.—(INS)—A major upset was recorded here today in the decisive beating Norman Rubio, Albany, N. Y., fighter, handed Fritzie Zivic, the former welterweight champion from Pittsburgh at the navy relief show last night in Meadowbrook Bowl.

Rubio carried the fight to Zivic throughout the ten rounds to take six heats with Zivic winning two and two scored as even. He entered the ring a 3 to 1 underdog in the betting.

Promoter Thomas Culnan said about $2,000 would be turned over to the Navy Relief Fund as the show drew a capacity crowd of 4,000 fight fans who paid a net of $5,492.

PAM—Enemies! By A. W. Brewerton

SURE HE'S UNCONSCIOUS - BUT HE TOLD US TO COME HERE BEFORE HE - BEFORE HE GOT HURT - SEE ?
TOO LATE PAM REALIZES SHE HAS UNWITTINGLY BETRAYED THE FACT SHE DOES KNOW SOMETHING OF THE INJURED MAN'S PROPERTY !
A THOUGHT FLASHES THROUGH HER MIND:
OH, DEAR! MAYBE THEY ARE THE VERY ENEMIES THAT POOR MAN FEARED!
6-30
WHAT DID HE TELL YOU ABOUT ME ?
HE SAID YOU HAD THAT FORMULA - YOU WAS TO GIVE IT TO US !
THAT CLINCHED IT! HE COULDN'T HAVE SAID THAT, HE DIDN'T EVEN KNOW WHO SHE WAS !
YOU'VE MADE A MISTAKE, I KNOW NOTHING OF ANY FORMULA !

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Reconnaissance. By Harold Gray

HM-M-M-THAT'S WHERE OLD MRS. SLEET LIVES·· EVEN TH' OUTSIDE O' THAT PLACE LOOKS COLD AN' GLOOMY-
THEY SAY SHE'S A TERROR··TH' POOR KID WHO TRIED TO SELL HER BONDS GOT TH' DOOR SLAMMED RIGHT IN HIS FACE-
SHE CALLED HIM A DIRTY LITTLE PEDDLER - SHE'S A PLENTY TOUGH NUMBER- HM-M··WISH I KNEW MORE ABOUT HER-
"DADDY" USED TO SAY, IF YER PLANNIN' ON HAVIN' BUSINESS DEALIN'S WITH ANYONE, FIND OUT ALL ABOUT 'EM FIRST···
KNOW THEIR FINANCIAL RATIN··· FAMILY TIES-HOBBIES-WEAKNESSES··WHO THEIR FRIENDS ARE·· HOW AND WHERE THEY SPEND THEIR TIME-
HM-M··I KNOW SHE'S RICH·· ONE WEAKNESS IS HER TEMPER·· DON'T THINK SHE'S GOT ANY FRIENDS, FROM WHAT I HEAR·· SPENDS ALL HER TIME IN THAT HOUSE··I GOTTA GET MORE DOPE ON HER SOME WAY-

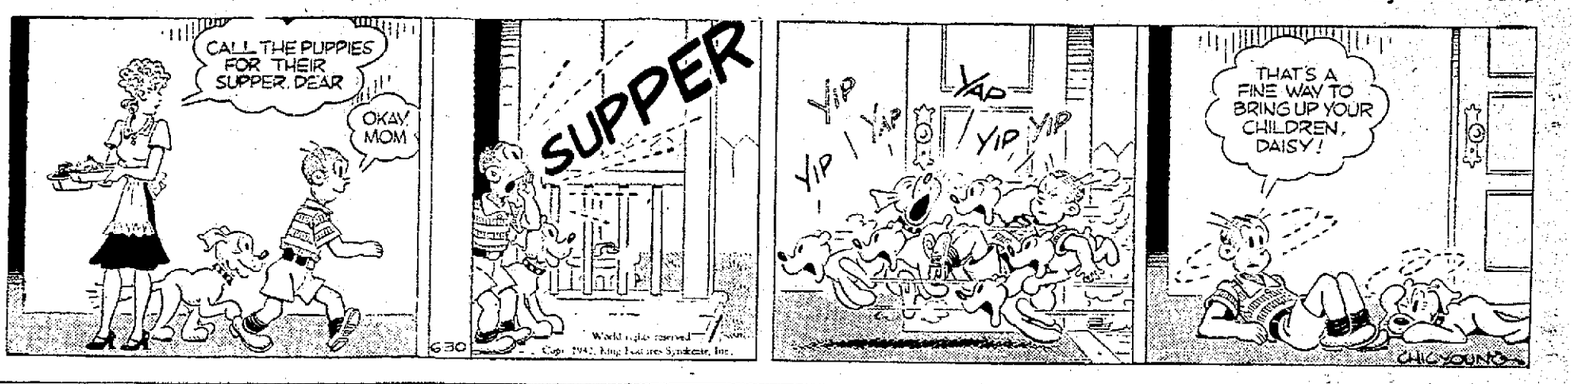
BLONDIE— Mess Call At Camp Bumstead. By Unic Young



THE NEBBS—Live and Learn. By Sol Hess

I HATE TO SEE YOU SO UPSET--WHY DON'T YOU COMPROMISE ON THE ROAD MATTER?
I HAVE PROPERTY RIGHTS AND I INTEND TO DEFEND THEM
EVERYONE SAYS YOU HAVEN'T A CHANCE--WHY NOT MAKE THE BEST OF IT ?
AND TAKE THE WORST OF IT ? NOT ME!
WHY, CLEO, THIS LAWSUIT DOESN'T AFFECT YOU
I HOPED YOU AND PAUL WOULD BE GOOD FRIENDS--THAT'S ALL
FORGET THIS LAW-SUIT. IF YOU'RE FOND OF PAUL JUST DO AS YOUR HEART TELLS YOU
THAT'S RIGHT-- IF YOU MAKE A MISTAKE YOU ALWAYS LEARN FROM IT--SAY, MAYBE THAT GOES FOR ME, TOO

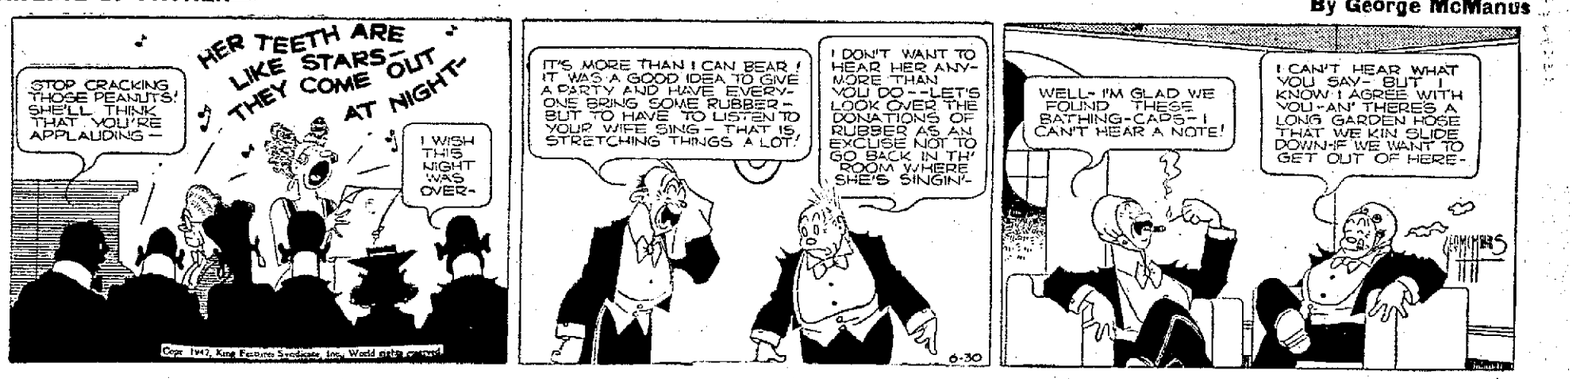
BRINGING UP FATHER— By George McManus



HER TEETH ARE LIKE STARS- THEY COME OUT AT NIGHT-
STOP CRACKING THOSE PEANUTS! SHE'LL THINK THAT YOU'RE APPLAUDING -
I WISH THIS NIGHT WAS OVER-
IT'S MORE THAN I CAN BEAR ! IT WAS A GOOD IDEA TO GIVE A PARTY AND HAVE EVERY-ONE BRING SOME RUBBER - BUT TO HAVE TO LISTEN TO YOUR WIFE SING - THAT IS STRETCHING THINGS A LOT!
I DON'T WANT TO HEAR HER ANY-MORE THAN YOU DO--LET'S LOOK OVER THE DONATIONS OF RUBBER AS AN EXCUSE NOT TO GO BACK IN TH' ROOM WHERE SHE'S SINGIN'- WELL- I'M GLAD WE FOUND THESE BATHING-CAPS- I CAN'T HEAR A NOTE!
I CAN'T HEAR WHAT YOU SAY- BUT I KNOW I AGREE WITH YOU-AN' THERE'S A LONG GARDEN HOSE THAT WE KIN SLIDE DOWN-IF WE WANT TO GET OUT OF HERE-

THE GUMPS—Jumping At Conclusions (?) By Gus Edson

I DIDN'T INTEND TO BOTHER YOU WITH MY PROBLEM, MISTUH GUMP SUGAH, BUT YOU'RE SUCH A PERFECT ANGEL-
NOW, NOW, HONEY-SUCKLE-ER-MISS VINE-NO ONE IS EXACTLY PERFECT
WHAT I MEAN, SUGAH- YOU LOOK LIKE SUCH A GENEROUS MAN- AND I KNOW YOU HAVE SO MUCH MONEY TO DO KIND DEEDS WITH-
PARDON ME, MISS HONEY-SUCKLE-IT'S TIME TO CHANGE FOR YOUR NEXT NUMBER-EXCUSE ME, SUGAH- BE BACK IN A JIFFY!!
GREAT SCOTT! IS IT POSSIBLE THAT SHE IS A GOLD-DIGGER? NO-IT CAN'T BE-AND YET WHAT ELSE COULD HER REMARK MEAN?
THIS HURTS ME MORE THAN I CAN SAY-

Special Edition Offers Variety of Summer Meal Ideas

Prize Winners In Contest Are Announced

The News-Journal presents to its readers today the winning entries and all other entries submitted in the Hot Weather Menu contest.

Today, more than ever, the homemaker is concerned with provision of adequate meals—filled to the brim with vitamins—for her unusually active family. Suggestions presented in the contest's four classifications should prove especially helpful to mothers who have less time to spend in the kitchen, because they are spending more time at Red Cross headquarters, at nutrition class meetings and doing whatever they can in the victory campaign.

Mansfield homemakers evidently realize that the war worker needs energy-giving meals in order to do his job with the maximum efficiency; the "war worker's lunch box" entries outnumbered the other three classifications. Second in poularity were the menus for "Sunday Suppers." "Vitamin luncheons" ranked third in number contributed, while the least numerous were the "Family Picnic" menus.

Grand prize winners in the contest for menus that will "make America strong by making Americans stronger," are Mrs. Clark W. Brook, 201 Euclid avenue, who received a $25 war bond, and Mrs. D. L. Ader, 569 Highland avenue, who was awarded $10 in war stamps. The prizes were awarded on the basis of the general excellence of their entries in all classifications. These women also were awarded individual prizes in the separate classifications, where judging was on the basis of excellence of each menu submitted.

The entries were judged by three nutrition experts: Miss Pauline Scofield, Miss Katherine Rhoads, and Mrs. Irene Oberlin.

Contestants were asked to submit a three-day schedule of lunches for the war worker to take with him to the factory. No recipes were required in this classification. Most menus featured sandwiches, with ham in various forms topping the list.

Other sandwich suggestions included cheese, chicken, steak and meat loaf. Thermos bottles solve the problem of keeping beverages hot or cold until consumption. Egg nog and milk provide nourishment; coffee and iced tea are stimulating and popular. It has been suggested that the homemaker include a surprise in her war worker's box to add to his pleasure at lunch-time.

"Cook your dinner with the lunch box in mind and you will always have things ready for the lunch," is the advice of one of the contestants. The same woman advises that the housewife furnish fresh fruit for dessert because it is "excellent for food value, in spite of the fact that it is not as filling as pie or cake."

Many families have very light meals on Sunday evenings because of the large dinner customarily served early Sunday afternoon. However, now that every member of a family is using more energy than usual and nerves are more likely to be on edge, the homemaker is reminded that the Sunday supper is extremely important. Mansfield women who participated in the Hot Weather Menu contest suggested meals which are easy to prepare, yet are rich in vitamin content. With each complete menu, a favorite recipe from that menu was submitted. Some of the meals consisted of cold dishes, others contained the customary hot meals and vegetables.

Now that more and more women are learning the value of nutrition, the suggested "vitamin

Served As Judges In N-J Menu Contest

Tasty, Easily Prepared Sunday Suppers You'll Enjoy

Suggest Varied Menus For An Evening Snack

Wipe away all those frowns caused by vacation worries, mother. The old saying, "there's no place like home" is going to be doubly true this year.

The general idea of vacations usually seems to be for a change in routine and scenery. Start today with a new way of serving meals, especially Sunday evening suppers! Have family suppers to which every member of your household will want to come because it's fun!

Get out of your dining room, try the porch or the back yard. Perhaps your neighbors will want to join. But to make these picnics a special treat, you ought to have something which spells delightfulness in anyone's language.

This isn't difficult and moreover it's easy and entertaining, especially when a radio is added. Daughter will want to help if she sees that the food is going to be arranged colorfully and attractively. These suggestions will help you to make a success of your family get-togethers on Sunday evening!

Here Are More Suggestions for Evening Snack

Tomato Rabbit on enriched white bread or whole wheat toast
Salad of cabbage, lettuce, cucumber and sweet green pepper and sliced radishes with french dressing
Devil's Food Cake and Fresh Fruit
Hot or Cold Tea with lemon slices

Tomato Rabbit.

Put two tablespoons butter in skillet. When melted add two tablespoons flour. Stir until well blended, then add ¾ cup milk (rich). Bring to boiling point and add 1 qt. tomato juice or puree mixed with one-eighth teaspoon (scant) soda. Add one-half pound cheese, finely cut, and two eggs slightly beaten, one-half teaspoon salt and a few grains of cayenne. Serve on the toast as soon as cheese melts. Delicious and an old time favorite.

1 qt. tomato puree
2 tablespoons butter or margerine
2 tablespoons flour
¾ cp rich milk
⅛ teaspoon soda
½ lb. cheese, finely cut
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains of cayenne pepper

Toasted Corned Beef Sandwiches
Fresh Fruit Salad
Packaged Assorted Cookies
Iced Tea Coffee

Toasted Corned Beef Sandwiches.

1 12-oz. can corned beef
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
5 tablespoons melted butter
White or whole wheat bread

Flake the corned beef, add mustard, mayonnaise and melted butter. Spread between slices of bread in sandwich fashion, allowing 2 tablespoons for each sandwich. Brush the outside of the sandwiches with melted butter, then toast in an electric sandwich toaster or saute the sandwiches until golden brown on both sides in butter in skillet. Makes 9 full-size sandwiches.

Cold Platter Meat
Celery Stuffed with Cheese
Sliced Tomatoes Mayonnaise
Sliced Cucumbers
Gooseberry Jam
Hot Biscuits or Rolls
Frozen Pears
with Chocolate Sauce
Cookies Coffee

Cold Platter Meat.

Stew a beef shank, with 3 or 4 pounds of meat on it, gently. While cooking season with salt, pepper, mustard, ketchup, a small minced onion, ½ clove, garlic, 2 bay leaves, 3 whole cloves and 3 sprigs of celery leaves. When very tender and the liquid reduced to about a pint, remove meat and cut as for salad. Do not grind. Completely saturate the meat with the strained liquid to which a teaspoon of gelatin, dissolved in a little cold water, has been added. Use a glass brick mould. Put in a layer of meat (about one-third of mould), a thin layer of minced green pepper, a layer of meat, a layer of minced pimento, the rest of the meat. Let stand over night in icebox. Arrange sliced meat in center of large platter, surround with sliced tomatoes and cucumbers and stuffed celery. Serve with salad dressing.

Mrs. Vernia Zahn,
Garden Acres, Morgan Ave.
R. D. 2 Mansfield, Ohio

Jellied Veal Loaf
Potato Salad
Parkerhouse Rolls
Fudge Cake
Coffee, Tea or Milk

Jellied Veal Loaf.

1 veal knuckle
1 lb. veal shoulder
1 onion
2 hard cooked eggs
8 stuffed olives
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Have veal knuckle sawed in 3 or 4 pieces. Simmer the knuckle, veal, sliced onion and any additional seasoning desired in water to cover, until veal is tender (about 2 hours). Remove meat and put through the food chopper. Discard bones. Reduce broth to one cupful by boiling. Garnish the bottom of a loaf pan with sliced hard cooked eggs and sliced stuffed olives. Add the chopped veal. Strain the veal broth, add salt and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over meat. Press veal firmly into pan. Chill, unmold and serve with a border of potato salad and tomato wedges.

1 or 2 lbs. of sliced cold ham
Potato Salad Stuffed Tomatoes
Pickles Olives
Parker House Rolls
Ice Cream with Crushed Strawberries
Iced Tea or Milk

Parker House Rolls.

1 cup milk
5 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 cake Fleischman's yeast
1 cup lukewarm water
6 cups sifted flour
6 tablespoons melted shortening

Scald milk, add sugar and salt; cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water and add to lukewarm milk. Add 3 cups flour and beat until perfectly smooth. Add shortening and remaining flour, or enough to make easily handled dough. Knead well. Place in greased bowl. Cover and set in warm place. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours. Roll out ⅜ in. thick, and cut with 2½ inch biscuit cutter. Crease heavily through center with dull edge of knife and brush very lightly with melted butter. Fold over in pocketbook shape. Place close together in greased shallow pans. Cover and let rise till light, 1 hour. Bake at 425° F. for 20 minutes. Makes about four dozen.

Hot and Cold Picnic Lunch Ideas You'll Want to Try

Suggestions For Popular Outdoor Meals

If your family is like countless others, work this year has been harder — resulting in a greater need for relaxation Variety is one way to accomplish this

Does your entire family gather at meal times or does each member have a special time to eat? On some days this probably is true and after a while the schedule gets rather lonesome

A family picnic will solve many problems, including tire and gasoline rationing, and add enjoyment too Find an hour every week or so when the entire group can get together

STEINWAY The Instrument of the Immortals

Conquerors of Tomorrow

A time like the present is often bewildering to adults Values seem upset. You think of your children—what preparation should you give them for this restless and changing world?

Teach them to know and love music! This noblest of the arts brings inspiration, courage, poise—will help them conquer tomorrow! But let your child begin on a Steinway! The favorite piano of the world's greatest artists is the one piano for the student

Steinway tone and resonance, Steinway action, and Steinway craftsmanship in manufacture make this the least expensive of pianos.

Barbecued Beans

2 lbs. (4 cups pink or red kidney beans
2 large onions, sliced thin
4 cloves garlic, minced
1 green pepper, minced
½ lb. bacon, diced
2 8-oz. cans tomato sauce
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ tbsp. salt
2 to 3 tbsp. chili powder (optional)

Method: Pick over and wash beans, cover with 2 qts. warm water and let soak several hours or overnight. Heat to boiling, drain, cover with 2½ qts. boiling water and add all other ingredients except salt and chili powder. Cover and boil gently about 2½ hours adding hot water if necessary to prevent boiling dry and adding salt during last hour of cooking. Stir as little as possible to avoid mashing beans. About 15 minutes before beans are done, mix chili powder with ¼ cup cold water and stir in. Serve hot from kettle or if cooked the day before using, turn into large casserole, top with squares of bacon; cover and heat in moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for 1 hr., uncovering 15 minutes at the last to brown bacon. 1 small can pimento
1 green pepper
1 tablespoon onion, finely chopped
Milk, as needed

Pare and slice potatoes. Butter a baking pan or casserole, the latter preferred. Place a layer of potatoes, season with pepper and salt and bits of butter, and sprinkle with a light layer of flour covering. Add bits of pimentos, chopped green pepper and onion. Add another layer of potatoes and seasoning. Do not be stingy with the butter or substitute. Add fresh or evaporated milk to completely cover potatoes. Place pan on the stove to commence cooking as that will cook the flour, making it less likely to lose the milk by boiling out when placed in the oven for the baking. Do not have the oven too hot, as baking slowly not only cooks the potatoes, but incorporates all the flavor of the seasoning.

Motor Picnic, (Along the Way.)

Baked Beans with Frankfurters
Boston Brown Bread and Butter Sandwiches
Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers
Branbury Tarts Coffee

Prepare baked beans with frankfurters as follows: Saute in a large skillet 1½ cup minced onions and 3 minced, seeded green peppers in ½ cup fat until tender and golden-brown in color. Add two 1 pound, 9 ounce cans baked beans and 1 pound frankfurters cut in ½ inch slices. Cover and cook slowly for 30 minutes, then turn into a vacuum jar or jug. The tomatoes may be cut in eights and carried to the picnic in a glass jar along with the sliced cucumbers and French dressing, or they may be sliced after your destination has been reached.

Barbecued Steak: Grease your grate thoroughly to prevent sticking, sear your steak well, then turn it, turn as often as you think necessary, now use your favorite barbecue sauce; start basting your steak with the sauce after you have turned it once, do it liberally and often, keep the sauce piping hot and when it is ready to serve pour it on the plates, don't season until it is ready to serve. This is excellent.

These Luncheon Menus Are Brimming Wi[redacted]

These Tasty Noon Meals Satisfy

One can't turn anywhere today without seeing something concerning vitamins staring him in the face Why all the emphasis on these intangible gems? Because they really are important, especially in times like these when everyone should make a special effort to keep well.

No so many years ago the subject of vitamins was comparatively new, but stress was added when it was found that in our present methods of making and preparing foods, many of these vital constituents are lost.

With all the education being given, we at last realize that we must have our vitamins, but we don't have to stuff ourselves with Popeye's "spinich." So many of the foods we like contain a full store of certain vitamins, especially fresh fruits.

Wise mothers have begun a drive to supply sufficient amounts of vitamins in the daily diet. Since these are substances we must have every day, ideas for changes may be getting scarce. The following menus will help give you a fresh start:

FIRST PRIZE

Broccoli wrapped in Ham
(with Cheese Sauce)
Steamed Natural Brown Rice
Fresh Fruit Salad
Sweet Rolls Iced Tea

Broccoli Wrapped in Ham

Cook broccoli (frosted or fresh) until tender. Wrap several pieces in a slice of boiled ham. Make secure with a toothpick. (Serving may consist of several.) Place in baking dish and cover with a rich cheese sauce — white sauce and generous amount of American cheese. Place in oven (400 degrees) for 15 minutes or until golden brown.

Mixed Vegetable Salad.

1 cup Peas
1 cup Carrots, diced
1 cup turnips, diced
1 cup string beans, in ½-in. pcs.
French dressing
Boiled Salad Dressing

Cook each vegetable separately and drain. Marinate each with French dressing, arrange in 4 sections on a dish upon a bed of lettuce. Potatoes may be used in place of turnips. Add boiled dressing and put finely chopped whites of hard cooked eggs and yolks forced through strainer in lines dividing sections or use sprigs of parsley to divide.

French Dressing
Tapioca Cream Pudding
Peanut Butter Cookies
Whole Wheat Bread Butter

Cooked Vegetables—Cheese Sauce.

Melt one package American cheese in top of double boiler. Slowly stir in ¾ cups milk. Pour over these cooked vegetables; 6 carrots, 6 potatoes, 1 cup peas, (1 small cauliflower, optional). Heat in casserole in 350 degree oven. Parsley may be added on top.

Peanut Butter Cookies.

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup peanut butter
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg well beaten
1¼ cups flour
¾ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream butter and peanut butter, add sugar, add beaten egg, mix. Sift flour before measuring. Sift dry ingredients together. Add to above. Form dough into small balls. Flatten with fork on greased baking sheet. Bake 10-12 minutes, 375 degrees. About 3 dozen cookies.

Mrs. Hedges Princehorn,
197 N. Linden Road,
Mansfield, Ohio.

Salad Bowl
Cheese Scones
Mocha Walnut Mousse
Milk Coffee

Salad Bowl

Arrange salad bowl of several types of greens, including fresh garden lettuce. Add about 1 cup fresh diced fruits, such as peaches, grapes, orange sections. Toss with French dressing made of 1 tsp. honey, 3 tbsps. vinegar, ½ cup olive oil.

Miss Rosemary Alacca,
275 Park avenue east,
Mansfield

Creamed New Potatoes
With Parsley

(Scrub little new ones and cook with skins on to preserve mineral and vitamin content. Then peel, add cream. butter, seasoning; heat, and sprinkle liberally with parsley, a rich source of vitamin A.)

Green Pepper Omelet

(Eggs for protein are necessary in the diet; the finely-chopped pepper adds vitamins. For extra vitamin C, try making with tomato juice.)

Whole Wheat or Enriched Bread and Butter

Garden Salad.

(Any green vegetables you have may be used. A good combination is as follows):

½ small head cabbage
3 carrots
½ cucumber, skin left on as aid to digestion
2 green onions

Shred cabbage, chop remaining vegetables and mix with previously prepared salad dressing made as follows:

Heat in saucepan 1 cup vinegar (diluted with water to desired strength) and 1 tablespoon of butter.

Sift together:
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour

Beat well 1 egg in a measuring cup; add cream to make ½ cup of liquid; stir into dry ingredients. Add this mixture to hot vinegar, stirring thoroughly until it boils. (This recipe may be double or tripled, as it will keep indefinitely in the refrigerator, to be used as needed.)

Serve salad from a bowl bordered with crisp leaves of lettuce, and garnish with radish roses, or as individual servings on bed of lettuce.

Gingerbread With Orange Sauce.

Made with baking molasses, sugar is saved, and needed iron supplied. Or made "in a flash" with prepared mix. The orange sauce for vitamin C, but if calories do not count, whipped cream may be substituted; then have chilled orange juice to drink instead of chocolate milk.

Yours for "Victory with Vitamins"

Well Fed Workers Are Healthy; Healthy Workers Happy

These Menus Put Punch In A Box Lunch

With so many persons engaged in war work, the question of food is again in the limelight. For without a properly balanced diet, the workers cannot produce the maximum efficiency.

The question of health must also be given special emphasis. Not only is speed in output desired but consistency must be maintained. No man can continue to do his best if his system is starved for some basic food.

The working man like the fighting man must have bits of cheer to keep up his morale. And what could be better to add a smile on a tired worker's face than a tasty, invigorating, substantial meal topped off with a delicious dessert?

If the question of what to put in those war workers' lunch boxes puzzles you, read the following menus to get an idea of how to pack the box lunch so the workers can get a slap at the Axis bunch.

luncheon" menus are timely as well as useful. Contributors stressed variety along with taste appeal and the benefits to be derived.

Each of the menus was accompanied by a recipe for one of the principal dishes suggested. From the nutrition classes, homemakers are learning ways and means to conserve the greatest number of the vitamins in food through proper cooking.

"Let's have a picnic!" That exclamation has brought happy smiles to faces of young and old over and over again. While in a lot of cases the picnic has provided a welcome "change of scenery" Mansfielders this year are adapting themselves to the necessity of having their out-door meals at home and are planning to have just as good a time in their own back-yards as they did far from home in pre-war years. There's just as much fun in carefully planning what equipment is needed and in preparing the picnic food either indoors or out-doors.

As one person pointed out, "The first basic principle of a picnic is its lack of formality." It provides an opportunity to relax . . . And you don't have to go miles to enjoy that.

The war has made people—especially homemakers — "'vitamin conscious." With the war workers in the best of health and providing the men at the front with the equipment needed, with the whole family benefitting from mother's nutrition lessons, this should be "a healthier and happier America."

MUSHROOMS DORSET

Lightly scrub a pound fresh mushrooms with soft brush. Drain and add 2 tablespoons each onions, celery and green peppers and simmer 5 minutes in ¼ cup fat (bacon suggested). Add 2 cups tomatoes and simmer 15 minutes. Pour in 2 cups boiled rice, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each, paprika and white pepper.
